South Florida college sophomores rank low on test

ALLAHASSEE — College sophomores in South Florida generally had the poorest performance in the state on the College Level Academic Skills Test given to 12,391 students last October, according to figures released Monday by the state Department of Education.

This is the first time the test has been administered. It includes subtests on reading, writing and mathematics expected of sophomores, along with an essay. After Aug. 1, all sophomores must pass the test to receive junior-college degrees or go on to upper-division courses in the state universities' systems.

South Florida had an average score of 4.2, compared to the state average of 4.7.

The five South Florida schools where 2,724 students were tested are Miami-Dade Community College, Florida International University, Broward Community College, Palm Beach Junior College and Florida Keys Community College.

Students at both FIU and Florida Keys did substantially better than the state average, but those two schools had a total of only 44 sophomores tested.

The University of Florida's 1,165 sophomores taking the test outscored students at all other larger schools.

Black and Hispanic students around the state generally scored lower than their white classmates.

Blacks averaged 20 to 28 points lower than overall state averages on the three subtests, and Hispanics were 6 to 13 points lower. The 197 sophomores at predominantly black Florida A&M had the lowest overall scores among state schools.

But white students in South Florida also did relatively poorly. The 1,339 white South Florida sophomores averaged 5 to 6 points below the state averages for white students.

And the 500 white students at Miami-Dade didn't exceed the state averages for all students who took the test. Miami-Dade's overall averages were lower than almost every community college or university except FAMU.

CAPE COD SUMMER JOB OPPORTUNITIES

... including the islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard

BARNSTABLE, Mass.—The resort areas of Cape Cod, Massachusetts, and the offshore islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket are experiencing a growing problem in finding summer employees to properly service a rapidly expanding tourist and convention industry.

While seasonal jobs will be scarce elsewhere this summer, Cape Cod and the Islands will be offering over 55,000 good summer jobs in 1983. Most require little or no prior experience.

Because it is impossible to fill these jobs with local residents, most of whom make up the year-round work force, it is necessary to draw heavily from other geographic areas to satisfy this seasonal need.

As in the past several years, the Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau has coordinated an effort to assemble all pertinent facts on available summer employment and has published this information in a concise directory of summer job opportunities listing over 100 categories, some of which follow:

Lifeguards, swimming instructors, beach maintenance; camp counselors, craft instructors; island ferry crews, deep sea fishing party boats, scenic railroad crews; yacht clubs, marina work, sailing instructors, charter cruises, scuba diving, salvage work, etc.; resort hotels, food service, restaurants, culinary, bartenders, waitress/waiter.

Also, summer police (uniformed), security guards; groundswork, property maintenance, greenskeeping; carpentry, house painting; tennis and golf instructors; tutoring, governess, live-in helpers, etc.; summer stock theatre, stage hands; musicians, band members; retail sales—gift and antique shops; museum and aquarium staff; airport personnel;

Also, taxi drivers and chauffeurs; hospital work, nurse's aids, etc.; auction houses; kiosk rentals for selling own crafts; fast food & bakery personnel; fishing and shellfish industries; newspaper work (circulation, etc.); and secretarial/clerical positions.

Hiring has already started in many job categories.

The sole function of the Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau is to make available the names and addresses of local employers who hire extra summer help, with job descriptions and numbers of employees needed in each category, and a useful cross-reference map of the area. The Job Bureau is not an employment agency, and therefore charges no fees to employers or employees.

Included in the directory is a listing of summertime educational opportunities, academic courses for college credit, as well as cultural classes in music, theatre, and the arts.

For a copy of the 1983 Directory send $2.00 to cover first class postage and handling to: Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau, Box 594, Barnstable, MA 02630.
