

April 2016

Hollow

Kyle Boltson

Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: <http://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions>

Part of the Art and Design Commons, and the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Boltson, Kyle (2016) "Hollow," Digressions Literary Magazine: Vol. 13, Article 28.

Available at: <http://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol13/iss1/28>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the CAHSS Journals at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions Literary Magazine by an authorized administrator of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

Hollow

Author Note

“If you saw the world through my eyes, you would realize that no form of government is fit to secure us from the tyranny of human nature. Our generation believes it’s breaking free from old conventions, while it’s actually conforming to the system which enslaves it. They say I’m weird. I say I’m free.”

Hollow

Kyle Boltson

Caving in from the outside,
I can feel her swallow.
Her soul is empty,
It leaves me feeling hollow.
Her eyes are the darkest I ever seen,
My conscience is weak, and too numb to scream.
Nothing is there.