

Call for Papers—The Science of Conflict

EXPLORING THE SCIENCE OF CONFLICT

Journal of Interdisciplinary Conflict

The Journal of Interdisciplinary Conflict Science (JICS) is accepting submissions for our 2016 issues.

The JICS promotes both interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches to exploring the relationship between conflict theory, research and practice, while encouraging the development of new theoretical principles and new research designs, focused on creating new resolution techniques. JICS articles address the implications of theory for practice and research directions, how research can better inform practice, how research can contribute to theory development with important implications for practice. The JICS also publishes articles which examine current conflicts from new theoretical perspectives.

The JICS publishes manuscripts from numerous disciplines having experience or insight into conflict theory, conflict research, or the practice of conflict mitigation. Submissions are encouraged from experts of the subjects of international, interpersonal, ethnic, social, or any other conflict variation.

We welcome research from all disciplines including but not limited to, academia, business and industry, economics, the social sciences, the law, international relations, diplomacy, and the humanities.

Papers may address any aspect of conflict including theory, research design and implementation, practice and resolution.

The JICS editorial board has approved these submission types (Maximum submission length)

Research Articles — Manuscripts must contain original research. Articles must include a defined research question/hypothesis, a comprehensive literature review, a qualitative or quantitative research methodology, a data set, and a conclusion based on the findings. (Unlimited).

Theory, Research Methodology, or Practice Review— Manuscripts which examine previous conflict theory, research design, or practice techniques and present new alternatives or builds upon previous work. Manuscripts must contain a thesis statement, two sections containing a thorough review of current literature (literature addressing the topic of review and literature supporting the articles perspectives and/or conclusions), a detailed conclusion. Proposed new perspectives must be based upon data and/or literature analysis. (35 Pages).

Conflict Assessment—Manuscripts which examine current or historical conflict that utilize current or new theoretical analysis techniques to offer insight and a deeper understanding of the conflict being examined. Articles must contain a current conflict analysis, including historical background of the conflict examined, a thesis statement proposing a new assessment of the conflict, a review of literature supporting the new assessment or analysis, and a detailed conclusion. (30 pages).

JICS Article Reviews, — Review of previous articles presented in the JICS (10 pages). (Non Peer Reviewed, Editorial Board Refereed)

Letters to the Editors, Commentary or Reactions. (5 pages)

Submissions can be made at our NSUWorks portal

JICS: The Journal of
Interdisciplinary Conflict
Science

<http://nsuworks.nova.edu/jics/>

A Publication of:

The Institute of Conflict
Science and NSU Works

Editor-In-Chief

Mark G. Bound, Ph.D.

Publication Editor

A.A. Hastings, M.S.

Editors

Aleksandra Nestic, Ph.D.

Author instructions and full editorial guidelines can be found at our Submissions portal on NSUWorks.

Phone: 864.378.7423

Fax: 864.249.0494

ISSN 2377-6382