STANDARDS

When you lower your standards it is usually for the worse. It is a degrading experience you would like to sweep under the rug and forget. Well, it's time we cleaned under the rug.

It has become apparent to myself and to several of my fellow upper-classpersons that Nova has lowered its standards (the truth is painful). This is unfortunate since many of us have worked hard to comply with and keep up the higher standards the College has demanded in the past. The good side, however, is that Nova can now advertise as "an equal opportunity institution which does not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, religion...or intelligence" (more pain).

Step into the Student Lounge at certain times of the day and you will notice undeniable similarities to the new Metro Zoo. Some of this behavior is carried into the classroom where the instructor holds back assignments due to pressure from the dull-normal crowd, distracting and inhibiting others. This is unfortunate for the students who not only can handle the work, but who want to learn; which is what we're all here for, right? (exruciating). Sure we need the bodies, the extra tuition money, and the new gym, but right now I need some Novacaine!

TO: All Day Program Students
FROM: Frank Leach FL
SUBJECT: Registration - Winter Term
DATE: November 21, 1983

I know all of us have been thinking about registration for the Winter Term. Let me take this opportunity to share with each of you the procedures regarding registration.

December 5 - December 14 -- Advising Period

Each student will see their Academic Advisor to identify courses for the Winter Semester (both eight-week periods). Additionally, students should select "alternative" courses, in case primary selections close or are cancelled.

December 5 - December 20 -- Registration Period

After a student has selected courses in consultation with an advisor, been processed by the Financial Aid Office as necessary, and completed all registration paperwork (including a signed registration sheet with primary and alternative course selections), they will be free to register in Room 104.

December 20 - January 6 -- Schedule Modification

During this period the College Administration will review all course registrations, modify course offerings based on need (i.e., add sections, close courses, cancel classes, and use alternative course selections where necessary). This period will also serve as late registration for newly admitted students and those who could not register during the above-noted regular registration period.

Some Important Points to Keep in Mind:

1. All students should see their academic advisors, obtain signed registration forms, identify alternative courses, and register as soon as possible.
2. There will be no mass-registration in the IRP room as we had last term; we will reserve that thrilling experience for Fall Term registrations only!
3. Students may register by mail--but only after having met all prerequisites outlined above.

THANKS!

DAY PROGRAM REGISTRATION PROCESS - Winter 1984

Students will meet with their advisor to choose courses. They will also identify several alternate choices in case there are closed or cancelled classes. The advisor will sign the registration form.

Students will then go to the Student Affairs Office to have appropriate fees assessed. A staff person in the Student Affairs Office will complete a Day Program Registration Card for each student noting fees due and courses chosen for the trimester. The form should be initialed and the top copy given to the student to be presented at the Registrar's Office with the registration form.

Students will take the completed and signed registration form along with the initialed registration card to the Registrar's Office and pay appropriate tuition and fees. No registration form will be accepted in the Registrar's Office without the advisor signature and the initialed registration card.

Second copy of Day Program Registration Card will be retained by Student Affairs Office.

Fees: $20 registration fee per trimester

$ 5 late fee

$20 application fee for new students (to be paid one time only)

$50 annual activity fee - no fee to be assessed for Winter '84 for continuing students; $25 prorated fee to be paid by students registering for the first time in Winter '84.
