

1-1-2005

A Siren of the Sea Clutching my Pearls...

Maire Cuneo
Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions>

Part of the Poetry Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Cuneo, Maire (2005) "A Siren of the Sea Clutching my Pearls...," Digressions Literary Magazine: Vol. 2 , Article 23.

Available at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol2/iss1/23>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the CAHSS Journals at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions Literary Magazine by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

A Siren of the Sea Clutching my Pearls . . .

What is this thing inside me . . .

aching

breaking

rejuvenating

again and again

Incessant nagging at the mind and wrenching of the heart my strand of pearls slapping against the skin bruising, echoing

like her words

like her eyes

like my hands between her thighs where I want to go without hesitation or communication don't touch me, I need you

I cringe at your presence, but can't stop thinking of you as you're gone

What we have is the Ocean:

my eyes a storm surge striking your heart my waves crashing up against your soft, sweet sand

I fall back, go deep and cold your winds lick at my skin and wake my blood your current pulls me back in The white water is us – rearing up

suspended

pure, powerful, poetic spinning, then falling crashing, then rising up again