ABOUT THE CAPP PROGRAM

The Nova University CAPP program was originally designed by the New York Institute of Technology to meet the unique needs of police and corrections officers. The University now offers the opportunity for personnel in the total criminal justice system to attain college degrees.

As part of the Criminal Justice Program, the CAPP program emphasizes reduced classroom hours. Related courses are integrated in blocks, and classroom work is supplemented by both programmed study and conventional homework assignments. CAPP offers students challenge, reward, and intellectual stimulation. Participation by criminal justice personnel in such a program, which supplements actual job performance, provides full preparation for a career in public service.

The program's structure enables criminal justice personnel the opportunity to earn baccalaureate degrees in less than four years. CAPP classes are scheduled on a system of 16-week terms running from September through December, January through April, and May through August. A student can earn twelve credits each term, or a total of 36 credits in one academic year.

In the innovative CAPP program, content areas are merged in blocks to eliminate course redundancy. Master teachers competent in interdisciplinary areas present these courses as integrated fields of inquiry. Course blocks are scheduled in parallel structure and are taught identically in both day and night sessions, allowing criminal justice personnel to attend either session as dictated by their work schedules. Courses are offered at numerous learning centers throughout the state.

ADMISSIONS AND REGISTRATION

Admission is based on evaluation of educational preparation and the personal abilities necessary for academic success. Currently enrolled students may be registered entirely by mail. Completed forms should be returned through the mails by the stated dates. New students must register in person at the appropriate locations. Check the CAPP bulletin for the location, day, and hours applicable to individual students.

Application forms may be obtained through the area coordinator or by writing to the Nova University Criminal Justice Department.

Admission requires a copy of a high school or equivalency diploma and a high school transcript.

TUITION AND FEES

The cost to the student is $30.00 per credit, $90.00 per course.*

An application fee of $15.00 is required.

Life Experience Evaluation fee of $10.00 for each course submitted.

ALL TUITION AND FEES ARE PAYABLE AT REGISTRATION.

PBA members receive a 20% reduction of tuition fees in lieu of PBA's responsibility in performing administrative services.*

LIFE EXPERIENCE CREDIT

Any CAPP student who has completed a minimum of 12 credits at Nova University is eligible to apply for course credit based on the knowledge he has acquired while on the job or in other areas outside the traditional college classroom. A maximum of 60 credits can be earned through life experience and police academy recruit training credits. Application for life experience is made on a course-by-course basis, and there will be a $10.00 application fee per course.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

Nova University is a non-profit, coeducational institution committed to career-oriented education through teaching and research. Nova University practices a policy of non-discrimination and affirmative action in employment and in all its programs. The University received its accreditation in 1971, from the Southern Association of colleges and schools, the official accrediting agency for institutions of higher education in Southeastern states. In December, 1975, Nova's accreditation was reaffirmed for 10 years. In 1970, Nova University joined in an educational consortium with the New York Institute of Technology, a private, non-profit institution with campuses in Manhattan and Old Westbury, Long Island.

NOTE: Wherever Nova University is used it is understood that this is a joint program between Nova University and its sister institution, New York Institute of Technology. Although the program is Florida based, the joint resources of both institutions will be available to insure a high quality program.
