

1-1-2006

A Wish

John Paul
Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Paul, John (2006) "A Wish," Digressions Literary Magazine: Vol. 3 , Article 5.
Available at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol3/iss1/5>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the CAHSS Journals at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions Literary Magazine by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

A Wish

John Paul

A Wish is a type of dream.

Wishes are the dreams that your heart beats for.

In size, they are much smaller than a normal dream

A normal dream is “I want to be a doctor” or “I want to be an astronaut.” These are the dreams of childhood that adult life chases away towards the horizon. Most people stop dreaming.

A wish is a much smaller dream. Wishes are the leftover dreams that no amount of cynicism or reality can chase away from the heart of a human.

These are some of my wishes:

I wish to fall in love with somebody, grow old with them, and still hold hands when we're 82.

I wish my grandmother's cancer would go away.

I wish I knew I wouldn't be bald one day.

I wish I had more time to read.

I wish I was traveling right now.

I wish everyone would take the time to look at the stars.

I wish everyone wished more.