Bachelor of Science in Business Administration Overview 2016

You see yourself impacting the business world, and you want exposure to the best theory and practice. The Bachelor of Science in Business Administration gives you important perspectives and skills you'll need to become an effective manager and succeed in the global marketplace.

What you'll study

Gain a strong foundation with the core coursework for the B.S. in Business Administration. Progress onwards to advanced topics in strategy and management during your business administration major coursework, where you'll develop real-world knowledge and empower your potential as an effective decision maker, manager, and leader.

How you'll learn more

Having "entrepreneurship" in our name, NSU's H. Wayne Huizenga College of Business and Entrepreneurship has a distinct advantage for attracting forward-thinking talent. Add value to your business administration degree through an internship with local experts. Benefit from exceptional resources, such as the mentoring opportunities available through our Executives and Entrepreneurs in Residence. Want more? You can progress toward your M.B.A. or other graduate business degree at NSU after you complete your undergraduate degree.

Where it can take you

Apply your knowledge in administration by working directly in the public and private sectors, or continue your studies at the graduate levels in areas like international business, management, public administration, or human resources. With the bachelor of business administration degree, you'll have the foundation to create your own niche in the world of business.
