Most of you are familiar with the quote by Tao Te Ching:

“When the student is ready the teacher will appear.”

This adage speaks to the need for preparedness and a correct mindset in both learning and teaching in order to share information, to experience enlightenment and about what is needed for movement to a higher plane of understanding.

However, not many are familiar with the second part of this quote:” When the student is truly ready...The teacher will disappear.”

May you find your teacher.

And then may your teacher disappear.

Happy learning
