

1-1-2014

I Saw You in the Morning Light

Joseph Fleming
Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Fleming, Joseph (2014) "I Saw You in the Morning Light," Digressions Literary Magazine: Vol. 11 , Article 26.
Available at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol11/iss1/26>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the CAHSS Journals at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions Literary Magazine by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

I Saw You in the Morning Light

Author Note

A personal review of my work: unnecessarily complicated and incredibly eclectic; antiquated, pompous, and most of all, morose. Read at your own discretion.

I Saw You in the Morning Light

I saw you in the morning light
Amidst the rosy air,
And when you turned to walk away
Your shadow lingered there.

But so in love was I with you
So not to be alone,
I stole away that shade you cast
And took it for my own.

As lovely as you were by day
It was more lovely still,
And lovingly it followed me
When bent under my will.

With night descending, it remained
To comfort me in sleep,
A dream depending on my soul
To read my passions deep.

Yet as it were a feeble wisp
Without an earthly form,
I hoped to join my dream by night
With you by light of morn.

Alas, again you passed me then
Unlike that dream I wove.
I saw you in the morning light
A shadow of my love.