Human Flaw

Author Bio

Sara is a twenty-year-old graduate student studying experimental psychology. She earned her first degree in English Literature, but later chose to pursue scientific research. She believes wholeheartedly in living life without bounds; thus, she eats ice cream once a week, despite her being lactose intolerant.

Human Flaw

When we see a blooming rose,

    We pick it,

Take it,

    And keep it for ourselves

Until it dies.

Then we move on to a new flower with no remorse for the destruction

    Or pain we leave behind.

And so, we do the same

    To each other

We pick,

    We take,

And we keep the beauties close

    Until there is nothing left but the memory of what once was.

Then, in the end, when we've had our share,

    We sigh,

"To think they were once so beautiful."
