FATE'S TAPESTRY ■ ATHENA EDWARDS

Is fate so fickle,
That one's whole tale is written upon a string?
My whole life,
But a bristle on Fate's tapestry?
My existence,
But a knot in the invisible red string of fate?

That's a notion as well.
Invisible, red.
How can something invisible have color?
How can something feeble be final?
Invisible and red.
Indeed.

Who's to say though,
That I don't cut it up right now?
Patch it up with my own colors,
Knot it around the people I choose?
Who's to say,
That my destiny is even inlaid on a string?

Maybe my life's design is contained
Within the neurons of my own brain.
Flexible and electric,
Determined by nothing else,
Than my own self.
Is fate so fickle?
