Bow and Scrape

Author Bio

As an aspiring physician, Marina looks forward to a career that offers the opportunity of life-long learning in a team-based setting. At the interface of medicine and her passion for photography lies a tremendous parallel: it has taught her how to analyze the bigger picture and capture the smaller details at the same time. Much of her inspiration comes from vintage film clips and historically significant landmarks as well as her family, friends, and the places where they've shared nice moments together.
