

4-14-2021

Listening to Folklore

Samantha A. Langmaack
Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions>

Part of the Art and Design Commons, and the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Langmaack, Samantha A. (2021) "Listening to Folklore," Digressions: Literary & Art Journal: Vol. 18 , Article 14.

Available at: <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol18/iss1/14>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Digressions at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions: Literary & Art Journal by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

Listening to Folklore

Author Bio

Samantha aspires to become both a screenwriter and director. She has a passion for telling stories and finds writing to be her greatest form of expression.

LISTENING TO FOLKLORE

 SAMANTHA LANGMAACK

When I look through my rearview,
Sometimes I think I see you.
And when I feel you near,
I have to remember you're not here.

So all of my memories,
I carry like accessories.
But I can't remember your voice anymore,
And maybe that's why I sit and listen to folklore.

To allow myself to cry,
Every July.
As my birthday comes around,
And I remember you're no longer earthbound.

