Author Bio

Tristen Trivett is currently a sophomore art and design major at Nova Southeastern University and resides in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Their ultimate goal is to raise the collective consciousness and thus unite humanity against Earth's greatest evil: Money. The fundamental concept of currency has caused humanity to abandon morals and the true splendor of life. Trivett is interested in asking these larger questions which edge our potential. As a committed pacifist, their Leftist ideals have become an independent dimension to infinitely investigate. Trivett is particularly drawn to world culture, philosophy, nature, and Art to explore the problems of the world and larger ideas of the human condition.
