

September 2019

ROSS Hospital Ad

none none
none

Follow this and additional works at: <https://repository.wcsu.edu/jadara>

Recommended Citation

none, n. (2019). ROSS Hospital Ad. JADARA, 24(2). Retrieved from <https://repository.wcsu.edu/jadara/vol24/iss2/9>

Ross Hospital is an established full-service psychiatric treatment facility in a scenic, non-institutional setting. It is located in beautiful Marin County, California, just 30 minutes north of San Francisco.

A New Resource for the Hearing Impaired

We have exceptional programs to treat hearing impaired adolescents and adults who are experiencing severe emotional problems such as depression, suicidal feelings, and anxiety. Our programs include complete psychodiagnostic evaluations and a broad range of treatment.

Hearing impaired patients are incorporated into the general adolescent or adult treatment programs and are housed in our newly refurbished facility. A special 18-bed secure unit is available for acute adolescent care.

The staff, which includes certified interpreters and teachers, is trained in therapeutic communication methods to meet the special needs of the hearing impaired. And our Director, Dr. Evans, is fluent in sign language and has over 13 years experience working with the deaf. Special deafness-related programs and activities are available. Ross Hospital is equipped for the hearing impaired with a TDD, closed-captioned TV, and fire detection/alarm/sprinkler system.

Call or write today for specific information:

J. William Evans, MD

MEDICAL DIRECTOR, PSYCHIATRIC SERVICES

TDD: 415-258-6944 Voice: 415-258-6979

1111 Sir Francis Drake Blvd., Kentfield, CA 94904