If Truth Is Truly False

Adam Peck

“To say of what is that it is not,
Or of what is not that it is, is false,
While to say of what is that it is,
And of what is not that it is not, is true.”

Thanks Aristotle.

(That really cleared things up!)

But what if that which is not, really is,

And that which is, is not?

(Wouldn't that be something?)

What about truth itself?

What if truth, paradoxically, is a lie?

(But how can it truly be a lie?)

Truth is what we believe,

A factor as relative as time.

(At least, that's what I believe.)

We know that truth exists,

(It must.)

But can we define it?

(I'm not sure.)

Can we hear silence?

Can we see the invisible?

Can we smell the odorless?

Can we taste the flavorless?

Can we touch the intangible?

Can we know the absolute truth?

(Should we even try?)
