Orientation: In The Eyes of New Students

by Michelle Zonner

I am a transfer student from University of Cincinnati. Orientation at Nova was a new experience for me.

During Orientation Week, I have met many new people and gained friends.

One of the more impressive events of orientation, was the welcoming ceremonies, which cleared my mind of many questions.

The speeches were informative, and the workshops made me feel comfortable with what they were saying.

Then there were workshops like Survival Training!!

It sounds like a frightening experience, but it was an informative and helpful on decision-making processes.

Another interesting program was the Majors workshop for students.

This was extremely helpful.

I wanted to make sure Psychology was the major I really wanted to aim for. This session enhanced my decision, and I am sure I will work towards a Psychology degree.

Although I was unable to attend every workshop, the ones that I attended were interesting, ideal, and informative.

Many feel that college needs to be 100% serious all the time.

It does not.

There is time for studying and time for socializing.

Although this past week happened to be for both, the afternoons and evenings were reserved for fun.

On the first day of orientation, the Student Orientation Staff convinced many people to sign up for team sports and games.

At first I felt intimidated about playing games with total strangers, but after a few games, I began to look forward to them.

We all had a good time and did not mind when we lost, because we were having fun.

Some of the games that we played were Nova Olympiads, tug-o-war, canoe racing, volleyball, and basketball to name a few.

At the end of the week, everyone received a NovaFest T-shirt.

Student Leaders Retreat

By Cleveland Ferguson III

On August 17-19, twenty-eight of Nova University's Student Leaders went on what some called the "most rewarding conference ever."

The change of pace and scenery in Islamorada, Florida (which is about 150 miles south of Ft. Lauderdale), was just what everyone needed.

Career Development students, Presidents, Vice-Presidents, and Mentors for the Liberal Studies Program were able to get to know each other.

Students attended several workshops given by Nova University faculty, staff and administrators.

Caryn & Dix Asleson presented a workshop on Memory Enhancement.

It made such an impression on the Alpha Delta leaders that they utilized on of the memory exercises at their first meeting.

By using a made up name that starts with the same letter of your first name enable everyone to remember the names of people they have never seen before.

If there were twenty people in the room the twentieth person had to say everyone else's name in the room.

At the Conference Joe Savka was the twenty-eighth person in the President's group. The method proved successful.

Other students felt they got the valuable information they needed to make their meetings as productive as possible from the workshop.

Making and attending a Successful Meeting, by Gloria Reasons, an Academic Counselor in Student Affairs.

"Just because you are the President doesn't mean you have the right to crush or ignore anyone else's ideas," she emphasized.

"Meetings should always start on time. It is not sensible to hold others up because of the negligence of late comers or unpreparedness," she added.

Craig Chindemi, the Director of Development at the Friedt School, made everyone think realistically about their lives and where they wanted to go.

Resignation Causes Uproar

On August 31, 1990, I received a resignation from a good friend.

I learned this and it also happened to be Novas's Yearbook editor, Brian Ouellette.

His resignation reads:

To whom it may concern:

Due to recent differences of opinion between the Nova College Yearbook staff and selected members of the Nova College administration, I therefore respectfully submit my resignation as Editor-in-chief of the Paladin.

The events that have brought forth my resignation as follows:

The beginning of an Introduction to Journalism class, mandatory for yearbook staff members, that could not deal directly with the publication of a yearbook.

A public denouncement of myself and my staff by a Nova College Faculty member.

The resignation of all of my returning staff members as a result of being required to attend a class unrelated to the publication of a yearbook.

The inability of future yearbook staff members to attend the mandatory Introduction to Journalism class.

I truly regret having to make this decision. I have spent the last two years on the Paladin staff where I have strived to instill the value of a yearbook in the minds of every Nova College Student.

I would never intentionally threaten the existence of the Paladin, but at this point I feel I have tried every other choice.

Regretfully,

Brian Ouellette

Editor-in-Chief

No one in the Student Communications Department agreed with the way this was handled.

One of the first Editor's page responses from our peers. I encourage you to write in, especially when we may not have a quality yearbook this year.

Dear Editor,

As a new student at Nova University, I have had the opportunity to meet many great (student) leaders.

Recently, I have received some most upsetting news about one of these great leaders. Brian Oullette, Editor-in-chief of the Nova College yearbook, has resigned...

Whenever you spoke with Brian, you could see the excitement in his eyes. He was more than ready to put all of his time and effort into this yearbook.

I am truly saddened by the prospect that my first year at Nova may never be recorded in a yearbook.

My first year is going to be a precious one, and I truly believe that Brian is the man we need to capture all of our memories.

Dear Editor,

During the past year, I have had the opportunity to get to know Brian (Oullette) both as a friend and as a student leader. I saw him working on the yearbook last year and the final result was excellent!

Having seen previous yearbooks, the 1990 Paladin was a definite improvement. The people, including faculty, who have criticized it so harshly are wrong! Yes, everything can always use improvement, however if we do not celebrate the positive changes then they will eventually cease to exist.

Lisa Muellner
S.G.A. President

Dear Editor,

I do not know Brian (Oullette) or why the Parker building does not have the name of the teacher next to each course? The schedules will now contain these names, if they are known at the time the schedule is printed.

Dear Editor,

Nova University is finally growing. We have great student leaders holding some of the most vital positions among the various student organizations. Brian Oullette being a case in point.

After coming back from a motivating and helpful conference, these student leaders have grown and are excited about the work ahead.

Brian had received the new software for the yearbook and he could not wait to begin.

It is quite obvious to myself, and others, that Brian was motivated and full of ideas for the upcoming year. To hear that he has turned in his resignation is sad not only for me, but for the continued growth of Nova.

Don't stunt the growth of Nova, Nourish it!

Why doesn't the schedule of classes ever have the name of the teacher next to each course?

The schedules will now contain these names, if they are known at the time the schedule is printed.

Why doesn't the Parker building have a decent lounge?

Basically, the second floor lounge area is used by students between classes. The Rosenthal Student Center is the newest, and an essential, addition to the Nova community.

A Few Words From The Editors

Welcome back returning students! Hello again not-so-new students! As I said before in the Orientation issue, this is the beginning of a new dawn of Nova's Student Life.

My statement has been reenforced by an excellent Orientation Week.

On behalf of my staff, I would like to thank: Judith Perkel, Coordinator of Orientation; Terry Shear and Lori Savka, Student Orientation Staff Coordinators; Brad Williams, Director of Student Life; Dean DeTurk, and everyone else who contributed to this most successful chain of events I have participated in at Nova.

Now I would like to introduce my staff who have returned from vacation: Wendy L. Myers, Layout Editor; Errol L. Bodie, Sports Editor; Addie Gonzalez, Nova Life Editor; Sandra Watson, Local News Editor; Mark Bizokas, Entertainment Editor; and reporters: Angela Gilmore, Elizabeth Rompeneau, Christine Tapper, and Merideth Horn.

Together we will bring the Knight to a new level of professional quality and charisma. With a staff of people from of diverse backrounds and cultures, it is my personal goal to continue to both unify the student body and increase the awareness of students, staff, administrators and the surrounding community. It is time for a change and the time is now. With your constant support of letters, articles, reviews and interest, we will help make Nova a better place to attend.

The program, initiated in Broward County, exposes children at the elementary school level to the teaching profession with the hope that their careers will someday be in education. Their field trip to Nova University was a great success.

Thanks to FSLATE member Fredrika Delevoe for her assistance in the guided tours. Education Department Secretary Arlane Morris for the Nova gifts for the students, and to the Education instructors who helped with the presentation. Your help was very much appreciated! And most of all, thanks to our Faculty Advisor Dr. (Paul) Borthwick, for arranging the field trip and giving FSLATE its first project.

The election of the Executive Board was also held this summer, which I believe will be a good one.

Committees are also being headed by the Board in Publicity, Membership, Budget, and Programs. If you are interested in serving on a committee, you will be able to sign-up at our first general meeting September 13, 1990 (Mailman Auditorium).

Indeed, FSLATE has come a long way in such a short period of time. With already over 100 members, FSLATE will become the largest professional organization at Nova University.

The Campus Revolution is Now!!!

by ALVERNECE H. SWAIN

Everyone likes to have fun and be accepted. Students are faced with making decisions in order to "fit in" and to be socially accepted.

Some of the most important and confusing social issues you will be confronted with revolve around alcohol. Decisions concerning these social issues can be tough, when you are pressured by your peers.

Knowing the FACTS enable you to make a better choice for yourself.

Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students- BACCHUS IS US!

We are confronting the dangerous practice of accepting or encouraging irresponsible drinking attitudes and behavior.

We are working to provide positive peer support to help other students moderate their drinking, as well as maximize a college experience we don't want you, or ourselves, to miss.

BACCHUS does not say that you cannot drink, but if you feel that you would like to, you must learn to do it responsibly.

As a club, we help to educate you with the proper procedures for safe sipping.

Poetry Circle

The Poetry Circle is looking for people who are interested in sharing their poems, or just listening to others read theirs.

The purpose of our club is to offer poets a source of constructive criticism so that they may improve their writing, as well as a forum to share their work.

In the past the Poetry Circle has brought published poets on campus for readings and has culminated each year with a celebrity dinner.

As well, the president of the Poetry Circle is looking forward to creating an Arts Club this year. This club would allow artists to come together and interact.

Hopefully after one or two years the Arts Club could be divided into separate clubs.

Until then it will consist of sub-clubs all coming together in a play to be presented in February.

If you are interested in any of the above please contact: Harry Stone at 424-8213.

Commitment

The touch of a hand, thick air escaping between my trembling fingers.
All I ever wanted, softly given, mistakenly.

Thrashing around without sense, impaling others with love, kisses share like accusations in winter's breath.
Accepting my love is losing the game, no respect to those who are defensive.

The only way to win is not to play the game, making your own rules.
Graveyards beckon to those who forget childhood, giving up subjective reality.

Cowboys and Indians, children reforming the laws of physics.
Point blank misses, the art of compromise, the absurdity of all,
too high a price to pay for security.

When you find yourself locked in a room, with no key nor door in sight.
I come for you on velvet stars, and share my love for you.
When you mourn in ancient lands, I will mourn as well, finding comfort in your touch.
And we will stand beneath a raging moon, finding ourselves melting into one another, when you have need of me...
I will be there.

May not be necessarily true
But only what we believe
In fact many times it is
What we chose to believe
We have faith in our opinions
But is it really truth
No
Truth has little to do with Right or Wrong
But if the masses will accept it.
If we can persuade people
We can change the truth
Evidence can be slanted
Or perceived
Or expressed
To promote a "truth" quite easily
But truth is more than a belief
It is a common reality
That we share
That we've created
To hide our insecurities
Yes we chose our realities
To please us
We chose our truths
To please us
An see ourselves as gods.

FIU Just Gets By with 3-2 Victory

By Scott Vrabola
Edited by Errol Bodie

Hollywood, Fl. (Brian Piccolo Park)

A crowd of over two hundred witnessed both Nova University's and FIU's first contest of the season as FIU scored a 3-2 victory over the Knights. With the Knights playing on their new home field, FIU gained control with a 2-1 lead during the first half of the game. They then went on to score again, 30 seconds into the second half.

Nova's Cory Sheffield brought the Knights within a goal (3-2) at the 58 minute mark but FIU hung on for the victory.

"First game jitters and a young squad of players cost us two very easy early goals," stated Nova Head Coach, Hal Henderson. "I was very happy with the effort that our players gave us tonight. We're not going to make many changes going into our next match, we'll just have to keep working hard."

Although there was sufficient preparation, but those who were really came out to play. Overall, the team was successful and played hard the second half of the game. "We could have won that game," replied Coach Henderson. "Take away those unforced errors, and we could have won."

When asked about his reactions about the game, FIU's head coach replied, "Well, I thought that it was an exciting game. Defensively, we gave Nova all sorts of room and time to make plays and we ended up chasing rather than anticipating early challenges to the ball. That's what I was concerned with the most. That was not the way we wanted to play and we certainly could have done better. Nova played well and it was a tough game but we should have had more control."

Coach Henderson is looking forward to a great year and apart from losing four of their top scorers, the Knights can still do it. Nova's next two games are:

Sun. 9-16 @ UCF & Fri. 9-21 home Emery-Riddle University.

Editor's note: Contact Athletic Department for the times of the games.

Aka, like other top-seeded players enjoy their ranking, but experience a downside.
"When you are highly ranked, it causes a lot of stress."
"If I lose a match, it would be stressful, because I believe that I let others down as well as myself," she replied.

She comes from a family of hard-hitting tennis personalities. "A few of my aunts began to train me at twelve years of age and from then on, I have used the game as an anti-depressant," she expressed.

"I had a choice of a few schools, consequently, I picked out the college that met my professional as well as academic preferences," she concluded.

Everyone on the Nova Knight wishes Aka continued success.

She practices, two hours a day, five days a week.

Some of her favorite Tennis personalities are in the top ten in the world according to the Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP).

They are: Chris Everett, Zina Garrison, Steffi Graf, and Yannick Noah.

She does not intend to lose many matches, because she aspires to be ranked within the top seventy-five in the world.

Martin: Nova's Man Of Many Faces

By Sandra Watson

Martin loves the Army, and would recommend the R.O.T.C. and the Army to anyone.

"Even if you are not interested in a career in the army, go just for the skills," he responded enthusiastically.

"My study habits have improved 100%," he added.

Martin could hardly stop raving over the many benefits that the R.O.T.C. has to offer.

"I received $48,000 in tuition for higher education at the University of Miami," he stated happily.

In addition to his resident advising position, Martin is also a Lieutenant in a local army R.O.T.C. unit.

"I have a great love for adventure, discipline, friendship and the experience that I have gained in leadership," he replied.

"I find much of it in mock drills and war games," he stated.

Martin is also the Liberal Studies Computer Advisor.

"I teach Microsoft Works, answers questions about DOS, UNIX, and Shell Scripts," he concluded.

Angela

By Cleveland Ferguson III

Angela Davis, named after the famed civil rights activist, is student of the week for her unusual fashion designing talent.

Angela designs clothes for many people and finds herself making their fantasy wardrobes alive.

"Once you begin sewing for someone, they come back with various designs that either can be done, can be done to a certain extent or simply cannot be done because of the kind of material," she said.

You don't have to be Norman Miller, Jacquequeline Smith or Bill Blass to be able to design outfits.

"Everyday people design for themselves, they just don't know how it can be put together."

"Similarly, if a person sees an outfit in department store, it may be too costly," she informed.

"Being that I know how to sew and can produce outfits that are affordable, I become their designer," she said.

Looking at Angela's collection of diverse styles of business, evening and casual wear, she could easily be the next Liz Claiborne.

Editor's note: Angela welcomes everyone who wants clothing made to their fantasy wardrobes come alive. They just don't know how it can be put together. She said:
