Workshops and Simulations

Welcome to the NSU Shepard Broad College of Law's Workshops Program. This upper level program is taught by NSU Law Faculty as well as some of the most outstanding practitioners in the South Florida legal community. The goal of the Workshops Program is to provide students with simulated experiences in litigation, transactional, or regulatory practice environments.

The various workshops, clinics, and courses accommodate students who are interested in developing their skills in litigation and/or transactional settings. These skills are necessary for students who wish to become successful, practicing attorneys, whether they work in a large firm, small firm, solo practice, public interest law firm, or as corporate counsel. The flexibility of the workshops benefits students who must complete prerequisites for clinics and other advanced level course offerings.

Litigation-focused courses allow students to represent a mock client from the initial client interview and filing of the complaint, through discovery, motion calendar, a bench trial, and all phases of an appeal. Transactional-based courses help students develop skills in complex counseling, multi-party negotiation, conciliation, and document drafting.

Check prerequisites for every course prior to enrollment, including the introductory information under Course Descriptions.
