Fundamentals of Banking for Non-officer Bank Directors presented October 1, 2 & 3, 1981

by THE BANK GOVERNANCE STUDY PROGRAM
of Nova University
NOVA UNIVERSITY, founded in 1964, is unusual among Accredited Institutions of Higher Education, distinguished by its on-going research projects aimed at solutions of many contemporary problems and is open to students of all ages. Graduate Curricula covering a variety of Master's, Doctoral and Post-Doctoral Disciplines, and continuing non-degree Programs are offered. With students on the Main Campus in Florida, in 22 other states and in Washington, D.C., Nova, consistent with its mission to offer learning opportunities to adults wherever they may be, is truly a University of national scope.

In the area of Banking Studies, the Certificate in Banking Training Program, designed with the assistance of Academic Specialists and Practicing Bankers, is part of Nova's Graduate Management Curriculum. This Program is designed to meet the training needs of Mid-level Bank Administrators.

Now Nova University has added a new dimension to its banking curriculum by offering an academically structured intensive three-day Course on Fundamentals of Banking, developed especially for Non-officer Bank Directors.

This unique course has been designed by Irving G. Rudd, Distinguished Visiting Professor of Banking and Director of the Bank Governance Study Program. Its objective is to give Non-officer Bank Directors an opportunity to acquire in-depth knowledge of Banking Policy and Procedures.

Nova's course for Non-officer Bank Directors was designed for academic and practical application. Dr. John M. Clarke, Director of the Center for the Study of Administration at Nova University announcing this offering stated: "The prerogative of Bank Directors is to formulate Policy which requires understanding of banking fundamentals. I hope that this unique educational package will help non-officer Bank Directors in acquiring additional knowledge for more effective performance."

THE FACULTY

Irving G. Rudd

Until his retirement in 1979, Irving G. Rudd was President and Chief Executive Officer of District of Columbia National Bank in Washington, D.C., and Adjunct Professor of Banking at American University. Mr. Rudd’s academic credentials include degrees from Harvard and Columbia Universities. During his banking career, Professor Irving Rudd served on the Council of Administration of the District of Columbia Bankers Associations and participated in the activities of the American Bankers Association, Robert Morris Associates, the National Economists Club, and the Federation of Financial Analysts.

Edward W. Reed

Former Senior Vice President and Economist for the United States National Bank of Oregon in Portland, Edward W. Reed, Ph.D., has been recognized as an outstanding Professor in the Colleges of Business Administration in which he has taught. Dr. Reed has served on the staff at many distinguished institutions such as the Pacific Coast Bank School, University of Washington; The Banking School of the South, Louisiana State University; and the University of Arkansas, Department of Economics. Dr. Reed has authored and co-authored many books and articles including Commercial Bank Management, Commercial Banking and the Oregon Business Barometer. Dr. Reed’s academic credentials include a B.Ed. from Southern Illinois University and an M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

The combination of academic training and practical experience in Finance and Banking make IRVING G. RUDD and EDWARD W. REED outstanding professors in the Bank Governance Study Program.
