1-1-2009

build bigger barriers

Stefani Rubino
Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://nsuworks.nova.edu/digressions/vol6/iss1/37

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the CAHSS Journals at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digressions Literary Magazine by an authorized editor of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.
It’s a blessing, you know
To be unconventional me Misunderstood, yet admired
Not afraid to put on make-up or play in the mud Finding a middle ground, indeed
The love in my heart, determination in my mind, and seed of life in my womb will show—
This Unconventional Woman—Unconventional Me!

build bigger barriers
stefani rubino

after years of Catholic school education, i still cannot escape “God.”
he follows me everywhere i go.
to work, to school,
and into my favorite works of Literature and Philosophy.
i am trying, “Lord” am i trying, to run away from “Him” or, at least, the idea of “Him” so i don’t turn into one of those people who follows “Him” blindly into the horrors of war, who forgets to live life because i am so concerned with what happens afterward,
who uses “His” name as a justification to torture, rape, and kill whole continents of people whose only crime was failing to build barriers big enough to keep the white men OUT.