The Practitioners Research and Scholarship Institute

The Practitioners Research and Scholarship Institute (PRASI) is an extensively diverse group of practitioners of conflict resolution guided by an intention to turn inside-out two issues important to the field of conflict resolution, thereby transforming them from “problems” into new and successful endeavors. Those two issues are the perceived gap between research and practice, and the manifest failure to create a truly multicultural field. PRASI is based on two premises:

- There is no intrinsic gap between research and practice, if research is defined as the reflections and captured learning's of practitioners.
- Multiculturalism can only become a reality when the collected experience of those people whose work is least visible is seen to be essential and intrinsic to the building of the knowledge of the field as a whole.

Combined, these two premises lead PRASI to support research by practitioners, with a particular interest in the practice of people of color and others ordinarily assigned the margins rather than the center of the field.

PRASI includes practitioners, professors of conflict resolution, graduate students in the field, scholars, and those passionate about this work. The work of the institute includes small study groups throughout the country as well as national and international dialogue. The PRASI group also includes editors with experience in the writing and revision of scholarly papers. These individuals guide practitioners in the effective writing of papers detailing their experiences, case histories, and beginning attempts at theoretical statements. The goal is to inspire literature, resources and relationships in the field unlike any we have experienced before.

There are many ways to get involved: joining an on-going seminar-by-conference-call, contributing writing to the Anthology or one of the many PRASI journal collaborations, volunteering for editorial work or mentoring, applying to a writing support program, and more. S. Y. Bowland (Director) is a conflict resolution practitioner, mediator, consultant and trainer. Her areas of specialty include the art of negotiation, peacemaking, conflict resolution, diversity and leadership. She is a registered neutral with the Supreme Court of Georgia as a mediator and arbitrator. She has been engaged in research on the topic of peacemaking and conflict resolution in the African American community, among women, and in diversity matters. Ms. Bowland has worked at institutions of higher and professional education, including: Morehouse School of Medicine's Family Practice Development Program, Tuskegee University's School of Business, Colgate University, Columbia College's Master of Arts in Conflict Resolution, Syracuse University's Summer Conflict Resolution program, Vanderbilt University, and William & Mary. She has co-chaired the board of the National Conference on Peacemaking and Conflict Resolution, and the NCPCR conference for the 1997 Pittsburgh, PA conference.

Beth Roy (Chair of the Advisory Board) is a long-time mediator in the San Francisco Bay area. She holds a doctorate in sociology from the University of California at Berkeley. Her published work includes Some Trouble with Cows: Making Sense of Social Conflict (an oral history of Hindu-Muslim clashes in South Asia, published by University of California Press) and Bitters in the Honey: Tales of Hope and Disappointment Across Divides of Race and Time (an exploration of race relations today based on stories by ordinary people involved in the desegregation of schools in Little Rock in the 1950s, published by University of Arkansas Press). Her current project focuses on the police killing of Amadou Diallo in New York. She is a past chair of the Board of the Network of Communities for Peacemaking and Conflict Resolution (NCPCR), a founder of the Practitioners Research and Scholarship Institute (PRASI), and an instructor in the Sociology Department and the Peace and Conflict Studies program at UC Berkeley.
STYLE GUIDE
Submissions for consideration may be in any form AND should include
--an abstract, preferably no longer than 125 words,
--the complete mailing address of the author designated to make revisions, including email address.
While submissions for consideration may be in any form, the following format is required for the final draft upon acceptance. Please submit a short biographical statement.

I. TEXT
In-text references are used with the full information of references placed at the back of the paper (in a section titled “References”). When specifically referring to the author in the text, please use the following style CONSISTENTLY:

a (Galtung, 1996, p. 2)

b. Galtung (1996, p. 2)

When listing multiple sources within text – (Alger, 1996; Axelrod, 1984).

When unquestionably necessary, endnotes should be used.

Single space endnotes, the main text, and block quotes.

Indent for each paragraph; No extra spaces between paragraphs.

Italicize titles of journals, documents, court cases, and books which are referred to in the text.

For the first usage, spell out acronyms in full – e.g., Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs).

British and American spellings/formats may be used. For example, centre or center, programme or program, and 15 May 1995 or May 15, 1995 are accepted. However, please maintain consistency throughout the text.

Define terms clearly and, if possible, avoid jargon. Do not use ibid, etc, or similar terms. Headings must be centered and in Bold. Subheadings must be italicized (left justification). Do not use all caps for either.

Tables and figures must not be any larger than 6 1/2 inches by 8 1/2 inches. Tables and figures must be in the same word processing program as the document.
Do:
1- use Word
2- be CONSISTENT within your manuscript.
3- submit the text, endnotes, tables, figures, and references in ONE file document.
Do not use: 1- page headers or footers in the electronic version.
2- page numbers or a title page in the electronic version.

II. REFERENCES
List references alphabetically in the “References” section at the end of the paper

Use a person's full name.

Roman numerals need to be converted to Arabic numerals, as in volume numbers of journals and books.

Titles of books and journals must be italicized.

Multiple citations of the same author should be listed with the most recent first.
List only references used in text.

Information about books, journals, and magazines must be written in the following manner:

Journals

Magazines and Newspapers

Books

Chapters in a Book

Edited Books
Unpublished materials
