10-16-2006

The Current Volume 17 : Issue 7

Nova Southeastern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://nsuworks.nova.edu/nsudigital_newspaper

NSUWorks Citation
https://nsuworks.nova.edu/nsudigital_newspaper/232

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the NSU Digital Collections at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Current by an authorized administrator of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.
NSU Men’s and Women’s Cross Country Teams Race at Disney Cross Country Classic

By Alicia Winslett
Sports Editor

On Oct. 7 the Men’s and Women’s Cross Country team competed at the Disney Cross Country Classic at the Wide World of Sports in Orlando, Fla. Head Coach Bruce McCrea said, “We only ran with half of the women’s team. A few of our women are a little banged up and a few have been sick, so we rested them so they can be ready for the SSC Championships in two weeks. We are the hosts for the first time ever.” The women’s team finished 23rd out of 36 teams. The men’s team finished 15th out of 30 teams. “Disney is a huge race with schools from all over the country so we weren’t really concerned for our placing, especially the girls,” commented McCrea.

On Saturday Oct. 21 the NSU Men’s and Women’s Cross Country Teams will be hosting the SSC Championships. Come out and support the teams. The race is at Markham Park in Sunrise. The men’s race starts at 7:45 a.m. and the women start at 8:30 a.m.

Second Lunch and Learn Deals out Networking Tips

Michael Bergbauer
Current Affairs Editor

On Oct. 5, Career Services held the second of its three part Lunch and Learn series, Networking, which took place in room 1047 of the Carl DeSantis building. In addition to the free food and drinks, guest speaker and Regional Recruiting Supervisor for Enterprise Rent-a-Car, Kelly Kamenar gave a presentation on networking.

Kamenar began her presentation with the reason networking is so important: 85 percent of all jobs are found through networking. “College is a great place to network,” said Kamenar, “because of so many professors with connections to interesting fields and student services, like Career Services.”

Before attending a networking function, Kamenar advised that individuals should know as much about the people in a network as possible and also to have a list of questions to ask them. This shows an interest in offered positions and is great for conversation. Questions could be about background, advice, advancement, rewards, lifestyle and even salary. After contacts are made, it is important to hold onto them because they may be vital in the future.

Near the end of the presentation, Kamenar went over the “Do’s and Don’ts” of networking. Do’s includes planning ahead, maintaining good eye contact, listening actively, and having a firm hand shake. Some Don’t included dressing inappropriately, going into great detail, sitting with familiar people, or arguing. Afterwards, Kamenar talked to students and addressed questions.

The most important advice Kamenar offered was “practice the things that you want to say or ask. It’s really important to have it down so you’re not put on the spot.”

“I thought it was nice that [Career Services] got someone with so much practical experience,” said student William Jackman, “The lecture was very informative. I think more people should have come, this is important info,” commented MBA student Lalchan Cheenibas.

Career Services’ next Lunch and Learn will be about applying for internships and will take place on Nov. 14 in room 1047 of the Carl DeSantis building. For more information about the Lunch and Learn Series or Career Services, call 954-262-7201 or email career@nova.edu.

American Idol and Hollywood Squares Come to NSU

Kristine Belizaire
Distribution Manager

On Oct. 19 and 20, The Division of Student Affairs will be hosting two fun-filled events, NSU Idol and Hollywood Squares, for the NSU Community. NSU Idol is similar to the television show American Idol, allowing students to perform songs in front of judges and an audience. While in the earlier
3200 South University Drive
Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Please join us as our deans, program directors, and admissions personnel meet with prospective candidates and discuss our programs. Tours for Group One Information Sessions will be held at noon and 12:30 p.m. Tours for Group Two follow the Information Sessions running from 2:45-4:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Call (954) 262-1101 or 800-356-0026, ext. 1101, for directions or more information.

Nova Southeastern University admits students of any race, color, sexual orientation, and national or ethnic origin.
A montage of nearby planets created by the Big Bang as photographed by the Voyager spacecraft.

Nobel Prize Recipients Nearly Prove Big Bang

By Greg Kyriakakis
Nation & World Editor

Focusing their work on the Big Bang theory, two scientists, John Mather of NASA and George Smoot of the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory, were awarded the 2006 Nobel Prize for Physics. The two carried out “very detailed observations” that have helped to solidify the theory, though it is still not proven.

The project started in 1992 when Smoot’s satellite, the Cosmic Background Explorer, or COBE, found what the New York Times called "the astrophysical equivalent of the fingerprints of God." By analyzing the background radiation detected by the satellite with the aid of Mather, the two scientists would create a picture of the beginning of the universe.

"It is one of the greatest discoveries of the century. I would call it the greatest. It increases our knowledge of our place in the universe," said Per Clarson, the chairman of the Nobel committee for physics in a Financial Times report.

Through their efforts, the pair has "really helped us to find the missing link in cosmology," added Per Carlson.

"Effectively, these are baby pictures of the universe," physicist Max Tegmark of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said. Though the work does not confirm the theory of the big bang — that the universe originated from a singular, dense and hot state 13.7 billion years ago — it provides the most evidence by predicting "the kind of cosmic microwave background radiation measured by COBE," explained the panel discussions, led by Education Secretary Margaret Spellings and Attorney General Alberto Gonzales, which provided information on ways to help communities heal after experiencing traumatic events such as school shootings. The White House distributed a list of federal and nationwide emergency plan resources, law enforcement contacts, mentoring programs, and other information.

School officials and lawmakers have made suggestions for helping
News from Around the World

Compiled by Paul Saneaux

North America

New York plane crash questions security measures

According to a Reuters report, "the death of a Yankee player whose small plane crashed into a high-rise Manhattan building has renewed concerns about New York's aviation security in city still jittery after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks." Politicians have called and called for "an overhaul of the safety rules" concerning any private aircraft flying near Manhattan's East and Hudson Rivers. Though several general aviation accidents have occurred along the rivers over the last few decades, worries rose drastically after Cory Lidle, a pitcher for the New York Yankees, and his flight instructor were killed in the "apparent accident." Lawmakers seek to change the current rule that allows small aircraft flying under 1,100 feet on the two low-altitude routes over the East and Hudson Rivers to operate without filing a flight plan and air traffic control contact. "That's like flying a helicopter or plane 100 to 200 feet over a building in Manhattan took many New Yorkers by surprise," said U.S. Rep. Anthony Weiner, D-NY, who supports change of the law. As of Oct. 13, the Federal Aviation Administration said it would review its flight rules with federal and local authorities.

For more information, visit www.reuters.com.

Eurasia

Chechen Prime Minister denies murder plot

In a Reuters Report on Oct. 11, Chechnya's Prime Minister Ramzan Kadyrov told reporters that he "did not order the murder of Anna Politkovskaya, the Russian journalist who wrote articles alleging he was behind brutal rights abuses." Defending himself and his countrymen, Kadyrov said in an NTV television broadcast that "Chechens do not go for violent settling scores, certainly not with women." He went on to say that "the people who ordered her killing did it once again to blacken [his] name." The counter-style of Politkovskaya's death on the staircase of her Moscow apartment "drew international condemnation" and had police saying the killing "was probably linked to her work." Although Politkovskaya, also highly criticized Russian President Vladimir Putin's handling of the anti-separatist war in Chechnya, he vowed to find her killers and bring them to justice. The Novaya Gazeta, the newspaper that featured Politkovskaya's work, said it believed "her murder was linked Kadyrov: either an attempt to silence his most vocal critic or by a plot to discredit him."

For more information, visit www.reuters.com.

North America

New at Burger King— Pot Burgers

While pranks can be fun, they can also lead to being arrested if pulled on police officers. Especially when marijuana is involved. KOBTv.com reported that while eating their delicious meals at a Los Lunas, New Mexico Burger King, two police officers realized that their food tasted "like it has marijuana in it" and removed the bun to discover the plant's leaves sprinkled upon the meat. Coincidentally, the officers had a drug field test kit which confirmed their suspicions. The two officers were arrested and charged with "possession of marijuana and aggravated battery on an officer, which is a felony." After the incident, "the officers began acting odd" and were taken to a hospital for evaluation.

Grieving Elephants Rampages Indian Village

Recently in India, thousands of residents fled their village as crazed elephants wreaked havoc while searching for a missing herd member. Little did the elephants know, the one for which they looked was dead. According to Reuters, a 17-year-old female elephant fell into an irrigation ditch, drowned, and was buried by residents. Homes and crops have been destroyed by the animals while those who remain in their homes light bonfires in attempts to keep the elephants away. "We have now formed a team of thirty people armed with crackers to try and chase away the elephants as they are out to avenge the death of their mate," said a local forest official.

Jeb Bush Hides in a Closet, Eventually Comes Out

Florida Governor Jeb Bush decided to give his buddy Senator Rick Santorum some help in the polls by appearing at a fundraiser in Philadelphia. Unfortunately for Bush, some were unhappy with his presence and began to protest outside of the club where the event was being held. The Post-Gazette reported that Bush tried to avoid the crowd: which refused to disperse despite police warnings, by heading into a subway station and eventually into a "T-station supply closet" where he remained for about five minutes until the crowd left. Following the "very tense situation," the governor attended his dinner.

BANG

continued from page 3

George Smoot's satellite discovers 'the astrophysical equivalent of the fingerprints of God'

Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences.

Other notable Nobel Prize winners include literature recipient Orhan Pamuk, a Turkish author, for his writings about culture; medicine honoree Andrew Fire and Craig Mello of the U.S. for their work with gene silencing; chemistry winner Roger Kornberg of the U.S. for his work with eukaryotic transcription; and economics victor Edmund Phelps of the U.S. for analyzing macroeconomics.

The Peace Prize was awarded to Muhammad Yunus of Bangladesh and the Grameen Bank he founded. "to help the poor overcome poverty. "Every single individual on earth has both the potential and the right to live a decent life. Across cultures and civilizations, Yunus and Grameen Bank have shown that even the poorest of the poor can work to bring about their own development," the committee said in a press release.

North America

Google buys YouTube.com, takes on lawsuits

After acquiring the popular Internet video entertainment site YouTube Inc. for $1.65 billion, Google Inc., found itself facing a string of lawsuits, according to Reuters. Google Inc., which plans to use the website as a "major foothold in the emerging market for video advertising," may be sued by various "independent film makers, garage bands, television studios and others" that claim that YouTube users upload copyrighted material to the site without permission. Legal and industry experts also predict that those seeking lawsuits will push for payment now that "YouTube is a top-tier pocketback." Google, owns the company. Kristin Ashcroft, attorney at Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP, said "For some of the bigger players in the industry, and given the amount of publicity that this deal has brought, it may be a perfect staging area for them to bring an infringement suit." Google has dealt with lawsuits from auto insurer GEICO, news agency Agence France Presse, the U.S. government, and book publishers in the past.

For more information, visit www.reuters.com.
North Korea Executes Nuclear Bomb Test

By Shenita Ann McLean

After years of speculation, North Korea announced on Oct. 3 that they were going nuclear, with a test detonation occurring sometime “in the future.”

The future came one week later when the nation allegedly conducted an underground nuclear test on Oct. 9.

President Bush, in chorus with numerous world leaders and the U.N., condemned the test as “unacceptable,” reported the Telegraph. Bush declared that the U.S. will rely on diplomacy and has “no intention of attacking” but still “reserves all options to defend our friends in the region.”

Sanctions and a resumption of six-way talks favored by Bush, reported MSNBC.

An Associated Press report stated that North Korea officials said sanctions would be held as an act of war and that they are considering more nuclear tests.

Some doubted the success of the explosion, such as France’s Defense Minister who explained that “if this was a nuclear explosion, it would be a case of a failed explosion.”

According to Trend.az, prior to the test, U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. John Bolton urged “preventive diplomacy” and asked nations not to respond with a “knee jerk reaction.”

Trend.az reported that strain over the North’s nuclear aspirations seemed to climb in late 2002 when Washington charged Pyongyang of running a clandestine atomic bomb program in violation of its pledge not to do so. Pyongyang refutes the claim.

“Can’t count how many times North Korea has threatened something and not carried it out,” stated Kim Ji-Hye a student in Pusan, South Korea. They have also said many times that they would not harm South Korea.

Some even believe that North Korea’s actions represent a “fit” so the country can once again gain access to funds.

“Believe the heart of this matter is to do with the fact that many countries have stopped providing financial support to North Korea,” said Kim Jeun, 24, a nurse from Seoul.

The U.S. is concerned about an arms race increasing in the area and these weapons of mass destruction being even the more available to terrorists.

“North Korea’s threat as an exporter of weapons technology to terrorists or so-called rogue states would increase with a test,” U.S. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said.

“North Korea is a known proliferator of weapons technologies,” Rumsfeld said on Oct. 5 at the Pentagon according to a Defense Department transcript. “They’ve announced they have nuclear weapons. People have to be concerned that a proliferating nation might proliferate weapons of that type.”

The U.S. believes that if North Korea is not stopped then other countries will begin developing nuclear programs. Last October, the U.S. imposed sanctions over money laundering and counterfeiting by North Korean companies. The U.S. Treasury Department said Aug. 25 that it will treat all financial transactions involving North Korea as suspicious and subject to sanctions while the nation develops nuclear weapons.

SCHOOL SHOOTING INCIDENTS SINCE APRIL 2006

04/24/06 (Riverton, Kansas) Five male students were arrested after their plot to go on a shooting rampage at Riverton High School was uncovered

05/05/06 (Miramar, Florida) A nineteen year old was charged after the shooting of the DJ Devon sutton at Parkway Academy Charter High School.

08/24/06 (Essex Vermont) Christopher Williams went to Essex Elementary School in search of his ex-girlfriend and opened fire on two teachers, killing one and wounding the other.

09/13/06 (Montreal, Canada) Kimveer Gill fired at students in the cafeteria of Dawson College killing one and injuring over a dozen before killing himself.

09/27/06 (Bailey, Colorado) Duane Morrison took six female students hostage at Platte Canyon High School, sexually assaulted them and then shot and killed one student, Emily Keyes, before committing suicide.

09/29/06 (Cazenovia, Wisconsin) Fifteen year old Eric Hainstock was charged with first degree intentional homicide after walking into Weston High School and shooting school Principal John Klang to death.

10/02/06 (Lancaster, Pennsylvania) Charles Carl Roberts IV entered a classroom at West Nickel Mines Amish School, held ten female students hostage, then tied them up and shot them, killing five, wounding the rest and then committing suicide.

10/10/06 (Joplin, Missouri) A thirteen year old was charged as a juvenile after he opened fire in Joplin Memorial Middle School and was arrested by authorities; he did not hurt anyone because his gun jammed after the first shot.

After years of speculation, North Korea announced on Oct. 3 that they were going nuclear, with a test detonation occurring sometime “in the future.”

The future came one week later when the nation allegedly conducted an underground nuclear test on Oct. 9.

President Bush, in chorus with numerous world leaders and the U.N., condemned the test as “unacceptable,” reported the Telegraph. Bush declared that the U.S. will rely on diplomacy and has “no intention of attacking” but still “reserves all options to defend our friends in the region.”

Sanctions and a resumption of six-way talks favored by Bush, reported MSNBC.

An Associated Press report stated that North Korea officials said sanctions would be held as an act of war and that they are considering more nuclear tests.

Some doubted the success of the explosion, such as France’s Defense Minister who explained that “if this was a nuclear explosion, it would be a case of a failed explosion.”

According to Trend.az, prior to the test, U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. John Bolton urged “preventive diplomacy” and asked nations not to respond with a “knee jerk reaction.”

Trend.az reported that strain over the North’s nuclear aspirations seemed to climb in late 2002 when Washington charged Pyongyang of running a clandestine atomic bomb program in violation of its pledge not to do so. Pyongyang refutes the claim.

“I can’t count how many times North Korea has threatened something and not carried it out,” stated Kim Ji-Hye a student in Pusan, South Korea. They have also said many times that they would not harm South Korea.

Some even believe that North Korea’s actions represent a “fit” so the country can once again gain access to funds.

“I believe the heart of this matter is to do with the fact that many countries have stopped providing financial support to North Korea,” said Kim Jeun, 24, a nurse from Seoul.

The U.S. is concerned about an arms race increasing in the area and these weapons of mass destruction being even the more available to terrorists.

“North Korea’s threat as an exporter of weapons technology to terrorists or so-called rogue states would increase with a test,” U.S. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said.

“North Korea is a known proliferator of weapons technologies,” Rumsfeld said on Oct. 5 at the Pentagon according to a Defense Department transcript. “They’ve announced they have nuclear weapons. People have to be concerned that a proliferating nation might proliferate weapons of that type.”

The U.S. believes that if North Korea is not stopped then other countries will begin developing nuclear programs. Last October, the U.S. imposed sanctions over money laundering and counterfeiting by North Korean companies. The U.S. Treasury Department said Aug. 25 that it will treat all financial transactions involving North Korea as suspicious and subject to sanctions while the nation develops nuclear weapons.
Classifieds:

Models/ Dancers Wanted
Upscale, high-end female owned agency. Looking for the hottest, most intelligent, personable females. Contact Amy or Rebeka @786 303-4711

1986 Chevy Nova 4-door $500 OBO.
Car runs great, good mechanical condition, good tires, radio/CD player. Call Kristy 501.617.2846.

FOR RENT
FOR RENT: 2 huge apts in duplex. 4/2 $1600/mo, 3/2 $1400/mo. Close to beaches, shopping, Nova main campus and Oceanographic Center. 954.937.1186.

Sitters Wanted.
$10 or more per hour. Register free for babysitting, housesitting and petsitting jobs near campus or home. www.student-sitters.com.

---

GOT AN ENVIRONMENTAL QUESTION? Send it to: EarthTalk, c/o E/The Environmental Magazine, POB 5098, Westport, CT 06881; submit it at: www.emagazine.com/earthtalk/thisweek/, or e-mail: earthtalk@emagazine.com. Read past columns at: www.emagazine.com/earthtalk/archives.php.

EARTH continued from page 3

it is reformulating all of its products to remove DBP and toluene as well as formaldehyde, which is also known to cause cancer and reproductive problems.

Exposure to toxic chemicals is not the only health concern associated with nail salons, where nail fungus and bacteria can lurk on the underside of any manicure board. Women’s health advocate Tracee Cornford suggests checking out a salon for cleanliness before signing up for services. She also says to make sure attendants disinfect all tools and equipment between customers, and even recommends bringing in one’s own manicure or pedicure kit so as to minimize the transmission of any unsightly or painful maladies.

---

Congratulations Winners!
The Life Questions Contest Committee wishes to congratulate the winners of the Life Questions Contest! 64 thought-provoking questions about life’s “big issues” such as meaning and purpose were submitted last spring. The winning questions and their creators are:

Is peace found within us or created by us? – Liz Harbaugh
Where is your journey taking you? – Amy Harvey
What will you do with today? – Cortney Palmacci
What matters? – Irene Toto
What gives you hope? – Winner requests anonymity

Join us at noon on Wed., Oct. 18th, in the Alvin Sherman Library, Room 4009, to honor the winners with gift prizes. Last Lecture Series follows with a 30-minute presentation by Dr. George Wallace-Barnhill.

Lunch provided!

Buy your t-shirt and hat with your favorite Life Question at events throughout this week, which is National Character Counts! Week.
The Leadership Development Program: Leaders at NSU are Born

Jany Cabezas
Staff Writer

The Leadership Development program is known for empowering students’ overall skill by bringing out their full potential. Marcie Washington, Graduate Assistant for the Leadership and Development program explained “this program is here to help students increase their personal and professional skills through self-management.

Anyone can join undergraduates, graduates, even faculty and staff. Washington encourages students to become active members in the community, and provides motivation through this program. Students are challenged in order to reach their full leadership potential; first through self-empowerment and secondly through being pragmatic about being involved.

There are three tiers in the program: Emerging Leaders, Academy of Service Leaders, and Consultant Leaders. “In the first tier, students attend workshops to learn the skills for the following tier in which they actively have their own workshops,” said Washington. Each tier lasts two semesters, with each tier meeting once a month.

The program allows students to expand themselves through development of various skills. Students strive for the “ability to effectively mobilize themselves and others,” said Washington. The key is to have a proactive mindset where leadership is seen not only through communication skills, but the action of the words. Self-questioning of one’s impact on the community is included in this process. Questions such as “what have you done for your students, professors, and family?” comes to mind. Core values are therefore enhanced, as students gain a “human dimension; empathy, respect, and acknowledgement of needs and wants,” said Washington.

This evolution of self is achieved through not only attendance at the workshop, but engagement and acting upon what is learned. “The benefits of this program are that you learn how to manage your time along with tons of networking. It helped me be mature and stabilize my life. I’ve got all positive experiences, nothing negative out of it,” says Emerging Leader Andre Dennis.

Robert Keever recommends the program without hesitation; “I highly recommend it. I learned problem solving skills at a completely different level with each workshop.”

The workshops each last one hour and students that are not in the program are invited to attend. Additionally, there is a monthly meeting and a few volunteer hours to be done. These volunteer hours are usually done with a community project such as “adopt a floor” at Jackson Memorial Hospital. “We engage in projects that students are passionate about, like ‘adopt a floor,’ that express generosity for others,” said Washington. These luncheons are also held at the UC and in Rosenthal. These luncheons provide the time for students to meet professionals representing different fields from medicine to business, among other areas.

The Leadership Development program is completely free. “What’s great is that it won’t cost a penny. If you were to go anywhere else they’d charge you for this,” said Washington.

By the third tier, one can be most involved and most beneficial, so others (those surrounded by the leaders) get some kind of benefit. With this the entire community is slowly but surely affected in a positive manner, beginning with student organizations on campus such as SUB and SGA. “We want others to get inspired by having our leaders be an example in society. This will not only help the students in their college life, but will change their lives. They take these lessons with them wherever they go beyond NSU,” Dennis, Keever and Washington unanimously agreed.

For any questions, or general interest in the program contact Marcie Washington at leadership@nova.edu or at Mwashington@nova.edu.

Career Services to Hold Fall Career Fair

Kristine Belizaire
Distribution Manager

On Oct. 18, the Office of Career Services will hold their fall career fair, which will provide employment opportunities and help NSU students to find part-time, full time jobs, and internships.

The Fall Career fair will begin at 1:00 pm in the Carl DeSantis Building. Employers attending the event will include the U.S Army, BellSouth, Carnival Cruise Lines, Miami-Dade County Public Schools, Target, MetLife and others.

The Career fair is not only for employment, but can also help students with networking, professional development, finding out what their career paths should be and meeting with potential employers, regardless if they are incoming freshman or seniors about to graduate. The career fair is also to help students become aware that they need more than just a college degree in order to get a job and that finding a job or a career is an ongoing process.

Before the career fair, the office of Career Services advises students to determine which companies they are interested in and also prepare a short introduction to use with employers including the student’s name, interests, and major. Students can sign up and register online for the career fair on www.nova.edu/career. Students attending are also required to dress professionally and bringing copies of their resume is recommended.

IMAN and OASIS to Host 4th Annual Fast-a-Thon

Kristine Belizaire
Distribution Manager

The fourth annual Fast-a-Thon, an event to raise money for the hungry and homeless people in Fort Lauderdale, will be held on Oct 16 in the Carl DeSantis Building Atrium.

IMAN and co-sponsor OASIS recognize that there are people who go hungry every day because they cannot afford food. Due to this, they have organized this event in hopes of raising at least $2,000 for the hungry. Last year, the organizations raised almost $1,000 for hurricane victims.

IMAN and OASIS are asking NSU students and staff to go hungry for one day so that someone else will not have to. Members of the NSU community are asked to sign a pledge that says that they will abstain from food and drink during daylight hours. By the end of the day participants are invited to break their fast in the DeSantis Atrium with Chinese, Indian and Middle Eastern food. Local businesses have promised to donate one dollar or a set quantity of food for every non-Muslim who agrees to fast.

This event is open to the whole NSU community. Students can drop off their completed pledge forms at Dr. Ahmad Albatineh’s office in MST Room 370W.

Individuals Needed for Ethics Bowl Committee

This year’s NSU’s Ethics Bowl will take place on Oct. 21 in the Malecz Psychology Building. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m.; full breakfast buffet will be served at 9 a.m.

A keynote speaker will give a short talk during breakfast. The Davie mayor is declaring the week of the Ethics Bowl “Character Counts Week” and will be speaking about character/ethics at breakfast if his schedule permits.

Details on this year’s eight cases, which allow teams to prepare for the Ethics Bowl, can be found at http://www.sald.nova.edu/ethics/index.html. Teams call also register online now at http://www.sald.nova.edu/ethics/register.html. Faculty and staff are invited to become judges for the Ethics Bowl.

Currently, judges include: Leslie Yaffa, Marvin Seperson, Darren Hibbs, Chetachi Egwu, Frank Cavico, Randi Sims, Vicki Toscano, Ben Mulvey, Denni Martinez (morning) and Gary Germsam (afternoon).

Monitors/moderators consisting of graduate students, faculty and staff are also needed. Students are encouraged to form teams of three to five people and to register.

This week, there will be a table at Quad Thursday, where teams can register in person and learn more about the Ethics Bowl event. SIFE will be helping with publicity and volunteering on the day of the Bowl.

For more information, please contact Robin Cooper at robicoop@nsu.nova.edu.
COMING
continued from page 1

years, NSU Idol also had dance and lip-synching categories, it was changed in order to make it more like American Idol. The first place winner will receive $2,000, second place will receive $1,000 and third place will receive $500. This money will go towards the winner’s club, organization, athletic team or residential hall floor.

Hollywood squares, which is played the same way as the television show of the same name, is an event where NSU faculty and staff members will be filling up the actual squares of a giant tic-tac-toe board. Contestants will then compete for a chance to win prizes which include round-trip airfare and accommodations for two to Las Vegas, and a Carnival cruise for two valued at $1,000.

Both events will be held on the ASA patio. NSU Idol will be on Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. and Hollywood Squares will be held on Oct. 20 at 6 p.m.

Terry Weech, Director of Student Activities and Leadership Development said, “These events are guaranteed fun, lots of laughs and free food. What else could you ask for?”

Terry Weech, Director of Student Activities and Leadership Development said, “These events are guaranteed fun, lots of laughs and free food. What else could you ask for?”

Q: I'm a graduate student and I need my sleep! But I keep having these recurring nightmares that someone is trying to kill me. I wake up in the middle of the night with my heart pounding, and I'm so freaked out, I have to turn the lights on and read or watch TV. I'm afraid that if I go back to sleep too soon, I'll end up in the same dream, so I stay awake as long as possible. Needless to say, my morning classes are suffering, and so am I. What can I do to stop this?

A: A bad dream is bad enough, but it's much worse, as you've discovered, when you keep having the same horrifying one again and again. How can sleep be restful when you're busy trying to avoid being killed? Enough already!

There are loads of theories about what causes dreams and nightmares, but no one really knows for sure why we dream or how our minds and bodies come up with all the weird stuff that plagues (or entertains or sometimes delights) us during REM sleep.

Nightmares are common in people dealing with trauma or loss. If that sounds like you, then taking care of your griefing could help change your dreams, along with other things going on with friends and family. If you don't want to tackle this alone, give us a call (954-262-7050) and we'll help you with it.

Can't tie the recurrent dream to anything that has happened or is happening in your waking life? That, too, is normal. If this is the case, then all you need to do is find a way when you drift off to the dream or drift off, too.

Often, a nightmare that appears to be static actually varies a little each time it plays out, and paying attention to the variations can help a lot. Whenever you're startled awake, do your best to remember the small details of the dream, and don't be surprised if you discover that each time is subtly different from the last. You may even want to keep a notepad by your bed so you can write down what you notice. After awhile, the changes can add up, transforming the dream into something much less frightening.

If these suggestions aren't enough to free you of this maddening nightmare, come on in for a few sessions of counseling. We won't interpret your dream for you, but we'll help it to change and help you to get some much needed sleep.

Have a question you'd like answered in this space? Fire away. Call us (954-262-7050), send us an email (studentcounseling@nsu.nova.edu), or drop by our office (Suite 150, Parker).
Meet the New Faces of Indie Folk

Man Man's

Obscure Musical Stylings Will Leave You Wanting More

Stefani Rubino
A & E Editor

As biz:irre have not seen it yet. and drums the follow-up to their "Departed," "Super Club" guitar, Man Man's new album, The Movie of the Month? But, and emotional tracks on the a more pleasing, and everything a good indie-prog rock album should have. They've cleaned up their acts and made something that could be valued as music instead of just noise.

Man Man's weird taste in musical styling and their artisitic and ambiguous lyrics definitely are definitely testing the boundaries of what is music and what is just very organized noise. For instance, the second track on the album, "English Bluud," opens with a bit of crazy rambling and then turns into this 1920's-style Cabaret-club song with Man Man's take on the traditional "Jack and the Beanstalk" story.

Most people would hear their bizarre instrumentals and lead singer Honus Honus' deep bellows on these tracks and laugh, but it's their Salvador Dalí-like surrealism and their incredible diversity that draws me to this album the most. On the third track, they've produced probably one of the most ethnic songs on the whole album. The very Greek-inspired "Banana Ghost" will make you feel like you're in some type of Alice in Wonderland-style Opus with five very twisted narrators (Man Man). Another great thing about Man Man is how much Honus reminds me of Captain Beefheart. His voice is just as deep, just as coarse and, yet, just as pleasing. Not to mention how much he surprises listeners with various little vocals throughout the whole album. In "Push the Eagle's Stomach," he does this the most, and although it could be a little confusinng sometimes, makes the track prettly entertaining to listen to. The song is smooth and fun but then every once and while they throw in random words that are repeated a few times and then the song gets back on track.

However weird or ambiguous their style may be, there's no doubting that these guys can really play. The variety of instruments used to produce these wonderfully obscure tracks is something that's definitely notable and what shows their love for Zappa the most on this record. You can hear everything from the typical bass, guitar, and drums to pianos, synthesizers, accordions, horns, flutes, and even a triangle here and there, not to mention some very random sound effects in between. "Ice Dogs," the last track on the album, combines all these great instruments, Honus' voice, great lyrics, and some very bouncy piano playing to create a track that sounds as if Zappa and the Temptations hooked up and had a baby. And as insane as that all sounds, it just works so well and makes this one of the best tracks on the album.

My favorite track, "Van Helsing Boombox," is probably the most "fluffy" and emotional tracks on the album. It starts out with some very classical piano playing and whistling and then descends onto Honus' bellowing vocals. With lyrics like "I wanna sleep at her feet like a dog for weeks/ Although I know it won't work out in the long run," this shows Honus' versatility as a song-writer because while most of the other tracks on the album are kind of apathetic and entertaining, this track is emotional and has feelings. Also, I think this is where they sound the most like Tom Waits, with their ability to sound completely empathetic but be so incredibly detached.

All in all, the greatest thing about this album has to be its incredible diversity and wonderfully catchy compositions. There has not been a single record made in the last five years that is any where near as daring as Six Demon Bag. Listening to it was like a breath of fresh air and it was certainly a good investment. I would recommend this to anyone looking for a change from the typical stuff that's around these days.

Movie Review

The Departed: A perfect mix of gangster and drama

By Kristine Belinaire
Distribution Manager

The Departed, a movie that brings the audience into a world of the good cop, bad cop scenario, is an awesome movie, with just the right amount of drama and violence to have you wanting to see it over and over again.

The plot of the movie is centered on actors Matt Damon and Leonardo DiCaprio, who both play the roles of cops with double lives who are involved with an Irish gang boss (Jack Nicholson). Damon plays the role of the inside cop who is helping the Irish mob, while DiCaprio is the undercover detective pretending to be an Irish gangster in order to expose the Irish mob. Damon and DiCaprio also have more in common than they know. I would go on more about the plot, but I do not want to ruin it for the people who have not seen it yet.

The acting was impeccable, and DiCaprio and Damon have shown once again that they are the cream of the crop in the acting business. DiCaprio has gained as an actor and has become more talented. Damon has also matured, and made his role into more than just a part. They both also delivered perfect Irish accents that would have made real Irish gangsters proud. But we must not forget Nicholson, who very convincingly

Please See DEPARTED
Page 11

Movie of the Month?

By Tanya Barnes
Staff Writer

One of the latest comedies to hit the big screen is Employee of the Month, starring pop singer Jessica Simpson and one of Hollywood's newest additions to the film industry, Dane Cook. This lighthearted romantic comedy features Zack Bradley (Cook) and Vince Downey (Dax Shepard), two long time employees that work for "Super Club" and are competing with one another for the "Employee of the Month" award. They are competing for the award in order to win the heart of Amy (Simpson), Super Club's newest cashier who seems to have a "thing" for the "employee of the month."

The film was fairly predictable, as most romantic comedies tend to be, and the acting was nothing special, yet the script to the movie was absolutely hilarious. There were so many funny lines in the movie that I did not stop laughing. I think that Cook did a pretty good job portraying the life of a "boxboy" working at a huge retail outlet, which pretty much meant that he was the lowest employee on the food chain. Jessica's role as the clueless cashier girl was fitting given her ditzy personality. The rest of the crew did a pretty good job playing out their parts as minimum wage earners working day in and day out for a national retail giant.

I thought that the set was also very good for the film. The "Super Club" was similar to Costco, and members had to have a special card in order to enter the store. The items were lined up in boxes on the shelves and were sold in bulk, just as they would be in a real wholesale store. The employees

Please See MONTH
Page 11
Album Review

Listeners Will be Begging for a Reprieve from DiFranco’s New Album

Boring vocals and strange noises make this an experience to pass up

By Alisha Van Hoose
Editor-in-Chief

The first thing I have to say about Ani DiFranco's Reprieve is that less than one minute into it, I was already begging for it to be over.

It's hard to determine a highlight – or even a lowlight, for that matter – for this album, considering that the whole thing sounds pretty much the same. Excepting a few tracks in which DiFranco sounds slightly angrier than in the others or a time or two when strange sound effects or a spoken-word track made me pause what I was doing to turn and stare at the stereo, there is very little variation in ... well ... pretty much anything prior to track nine. There's a little more variety after that, but I'm not going to say that that is a good thing.

Most of the songs on the album are either personal relationship based, political based, or some strange amalgam of both. It is easy to tell what she thinks of the current government ... if you read the lyrics. Trying to listen to them is so mind-numbing that you probably will not be able to decipher what DiFranco is saying half the time.

The title track happens to be the unfortunate source of the spoken-word portion of the album, and if anyone reading this can visualize the protest scene from Rent, they can probably visualize this track. The only difference is that "Reprieve" lacks Maureen's novel antics and cow lyrics, making it considerably less entertaining.

Oh, wait. "Reprieve" wasn't entertaining at all.

The press release that came with the CD touts DiFranco and bassist Todd Sickafoose "trying to use uncool sounds in cool ways," but those uncool sounds failed to deliver anything that could be remotely described as 'cool.' I listened to the album for the first time with a friend, and as track four started, our conversation went something like: "I think those are ducks." "Right. Okay. Is that a bicycle pump?"

This auditory mess follows a song where lyrics include lines such as: "You sang that song in my ear/and it tickled those little hairs." These are perhaps the most interesting lyrics on the album, but they only manage to claim that distinction by being just enough out of place in the song to be noticed. There are plenty of other strange lyrics on the album, but they are so buried in the coma-inducing monotony that you have to look them up to realize that they are there.

A Spade" is the only track on the album that may be worth listening to, and that is if you really have nothing better to do with your time. The background music almost manages 'haunting,' and the vocals are somewhat more interesting than in other tracks, but DiFranco tries too hard move quickly between the high notes and the lows. The lyrics, while trying to say something, are just as cookie-cutter as in the rest of the album, except for a few inane lines that stand out merely because DiFranco tries to hit her high notes while singing them.

All in all, Reprieve is pretty much more of what everyone has come to expect from DiFranco, so if you are already a fan and do not mind listening to the same thing all over again, go ahead and pick this album up. Frankly, I found it beyond boring and hope to never be forced to listen to it again; the disk is more useful as a drink coaster than as an album.

Listeners Will be Begging for a Reprieve from Difranco's New Album

Boring vocals and strange noises make this an experience to pass up

By Alisha Van Hoose
Editor-in-Chief

The first thing I have to say about Ani DiFranco's Reprieve is that less than one minute into it, I was already begging for it to be over.

It's hard to determine a highlight – or even a lowlight, for that matter – for this album, considering that the whole thing sounds pretty much the same. Excepting a few tracks in which DiFranco sounds slightly angrier than in the others or a time or two when strange sound effects or a spoken-word track made me pause what I was doing to turn and stare at the stereo, there is very little variation in ... well ... pretty much anything prior to track nine. There's a little more variety after that, but I'm not going to say that that is a good thing.

Most of the songs on the album are either personal relationship based, political based, or some strange amalgam of both. It is easy to tell what she thinks of the current government ... if you read the lyrics. Trying to listen to them is so mind-numbing that you probably will not be able to decipher what DiFranco is saying half the time.

The title track happens to be the unfortunate source of the spoken-word portion of the album, and if anyone reading this can visualize the protest scene from Rent, they can probably visualize this track. The only difference is that "Reprieve" lacks Maureen's novel antics and cow lyrics, making it considerably less entertaining.

Oh, wait. "Reprieve" wasn't entertaining at all.

The press release that came with the CD touts DiFranco and bassist Todd Sickafoose "trying to use uncool sounds in cool ways," but those uncool sounds failed to deliver anything that could be remotely described as 'cool.' I listened to the album for the first time with a friend, and as track four started, our conversation went something like: "I think those are ducks." "Right. Okay. Is that a bicycle pump?"

This auditory mess follows a song where lyrics include lines such as: "You sang that song in my ear/and it tickled those little hairs." These are perhaps the most interesting lyrics on the album, but they only manage to claim that distinction by being just enough out of place in the song to be noticed. There are plenty of other strange lyrics on the album, but they are so buried in the coma-inducing monotony that you have to look them up to realize that they are there.

"A Spade" is the only track on the album that may be worth listening to, and that is if you really have nothing better to do with your time. The background music almost manages 'haunting,' and the vocals are somewhat more interesting than in other tracks, but DiFranco tries too hard move quickly between the high notes and the lows. The lyrics, while trying to say something, are just as cookie-cutter as in the rest of the album, except for a few inane lines that stand out merely because DiFranco tries to hit her high notes while singing them.

All in all, Reprieve is pretty much more of what everyone has come to expect from DiFranco, so if you are already a fan and do not mind listening to the same thing all over again, go ahead and pick this album up. Frankly, I found it beyond boring and hope to never be forced to listen to it again; the disk is more useful as a drink coaster than as an album.
A story of two male employees competing for the heart of a cashier all wore uniforms, clocked in and out, and were required to wear name tags. The managers even gave their ten minute motivational speeches to the staff in order to encourage them to work towards becoming the employees of the month through their dedication towards their jobs.

I did think that the management was not a fair reflection of true retail managers however. These managers were very soft spoken and easily ruffled whereas the ones that I have known are not such pushovers when it comes to business. In my past experiences in the retail world, the managers usually spent the staff meetings criticizing employees and commenting on portrayed an almost satanic gang boss, and the performances of Mark Wahlberg, Alec Baldwin and Martin Sheen, who play the part of Special Unit officers trying to capture Nicholson's band of gangsters.

DEPARTED

continued from page 9

If you are looking for action, this is your movie. The effects are awesome and realistic enough to show hands being cut off, people being thrown off buildings, and bottles smashed over people's heads. The set was also good.

as the movie took place in Southern Boston, referred to as Southie, and it seemed as if the director knew the area like the back of his hand.

The movie was not perfect however. The slight turn off was a bit of racial slurring that was offensive to some viewers.

Aside from that, The Departed is probably the best movie of the year. It is witty, full of drama and the ending will blow your mind.
What did you think of Reading Week?

Brandy Shafer
Biology
Freshman
Daytona Beach

Reading week is an excellent idea. This event has helped me catch up with my studies and finish up some assignments.

Carlos Zamora
Computer Science
Freshman
Ft. Lauderdale

I think it is a good relaxing week to study. The only advice I have is for the profs to e-mail you times of exams.

Crystal Conway
Marie Biology
Senior
New Jersey

I thought it was confusing.

Mickey Mentz
Biology
Freshman

I think it's a good idea. I used it for extra study time.

Owen Nunez
Business Administration
Freshman
Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico

I think it's a bad idea because I lost track of all my classes and it confused me.

Mechelle Jones
Business and Finance
Senior
Rockledge, FL

I was done with exams by Wednesday. Best idea ever!

Todd Riethmiller
Computer Information Systems
Sophomore
Cincinnati, Ohio

I knew about it, but I didn't read. I don't need to.

Dara Castillo
Biology
Freshman
Pembroke Pines

I liked it. It was an opportunity for everyone to study prior to their midterms.
Manager of the Marlins
Joe Girardi Gets Fired
By Alicia Winsett
Sports Editor

The Marlins manager Joe Girardi was recently fired, and only five hours later, they had a replacement in Fred Gonzalez, third-base coach for the Atlanta Braves for the last four years. A confrontation between Jeffrey Loria and Girardi that started a few months back deteriorated the relationship between the owner and the manager. Girardi has only been with the Marlins for one season, and now the team is in new hands again.

Last year, Gonzalez was interviewed for the head coaching job, but Girardi was awarded the position. It was then easy for owner Loria to make the decision to hire Gonzalez quickly after he fired Girardi. The new manager, Gonzalez, 42, is from Cuba and was raised in Miami. In 1992, he became the first manager in Marlins' organization when he was hired to run the first minor league team.

The general manager of the Marlins, Larry Beimel, said that the Marlins hired Girardi because he was not meddling with other people in the organization. He says that Girardi was not terminated because of the fight with Loria. Beimel said "Joe is not returning because it was not a good fit. I will take some of that blame. I'm in charge, and it's my job to make sure everything runs as smoothly and efficiently as possible."

In an interview, Girardi said that he was removed very quickly. "They came in and said, "We're going to make a change,"" Girardi said. He also said that they gave him no reason for being fired and that he did not ask for an answer.

With new coach Gonzalez taking position, this makes him the fourth manager hired since 2002.

Women's Volleyball Team Defeats Rollins College and Florida Tech
By Nelly Mesa
Staff Writer

The Sharks Volleyball team (8-14; 2-7 SSC) overcame their ten game losing streak to defeat both Florida Tech in three straight games, along with Rollins College in a four-game match. These wins put the Sharks two wins ahead of Florida Tech, now placing NSU eighth in the Sunshine State Conference standings.

Sophomore Melinda Gorman stepped up her game tremendously. With a total of 5 blocks, 20 kills and 32 digs for the weekend, Gorman played a major role in leading her team to the two major conference victories.

With a massive smile on her face, senior Megan Johanson said "I feel like our attitudes were better and our desire to win were present this weekend. On the court, we served tough and played very good defense along with great passing."

The Sharks showed incredible fire after they lost the first game of their match against Rollins College, as they kept their spirits high and came out even hungrier for the next three wins.

Showing superb leadership as a freshman, Katie McNeel got it going for the Sharks in game two. McNeel broke out and registered 8 kills and 3 blocks for her team.

"We now have the confidence we were lacking before. Now that we are going into the second half of conference season, we are ready to prove to people who we are and what we're about," said Johansen. "The mind set we need is to continue with our confidence, great attitudes and just have fun!"

Men's Soccer Team Defeated by Rollins 3-1, Win Against University of Tampa 2-1
By Nelly Mesa
Staff Writer

The NSU men's soccer team (7-4-1; 3-1-1 SSC) came home with a split for the weekend, coming up short with a final score of 3-1 while playing Rollins College and defeating the University of Tampa in overtime, 2-1.

The one goal registered for the Sharks against the Tars of Rollins College was scored by senior Greg Kagan, with an assist from freshman Anton Siedlitaki.

Kagan made the goal in the 89th minute of the game, proving although the Sharks were down, they never gave up.

"Coach has told us to fight until the end no matter what, so we just pressed on and finally got the goal," said Kagan.

While in Tampa, senior Lorcan Cronin tackled another goal onto his tally for the season, putting the Sharks in the lead 1-0 in the first half. It wasn't until late in the second half that the Spartans registered the goal to tie the game up, and with a scoreless 13 minutes of play, both teams headed into overtime.

Within the fourth minute of the first overtime, a penalty was called on Tampa. Freshman Romain Onteniente, stepped up and took the game winning shot.

The Sharks are placed third in the Sunshine State polls, and with a major game this next week versus Lynn University, NSU could see the Sharks moved up in ranking to a possible tie in first with Rollins College.

"We're playing them on our home field, so hopefully that will be added pressure for them," said Siedlitaki with confidence.
Men's Soccer

SSC MEN'S SOCCER STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SSC</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>PTS</th>
<th>GF</th>
<th>GA</th>
<th>OVERALL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lynn</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>10 1 0 909</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rollins</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10 3 0 769</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nova Southeastern</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>7 4 1 825</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saint Leo</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>8 4 1 655</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckerd</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5 4 1 550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Southern</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4 4 1 675</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barry</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>7 4 1 375</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Tech</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>7 4 1 655</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tampa</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>3 6 1 375</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Volleyball

SSC VOLLEYBALL STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SSC</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>PCT</th>
<th>Overall</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Florida Southern</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1000</td>
<td>19 3 964</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tampa</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>889</td>
<td>20 1 952</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barry</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>667</td>
<td>11 5 888</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saint Leo</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>625</td>
<td>16 5 762</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rollins</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>444</td>
<td>12 8 600</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckerd</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>375</td>
<td>15 9 625</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lynn</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>375</td>
<td>8 9 475</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nov Southeastern</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>222</td>
<td>8 14 364</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Tech</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>000</td>
<td>2 20 095</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Women's Soccer

SSC WOMEN'S SOCCER STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SSC</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>PTS</th>
<th>GF</th>
<th>GA</th>
<th>OVERALL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tampa</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>11 1 0 917</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saint Leo</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9 2 1 750</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rollins</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>10 2 1 808</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nova Southeastern</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8 2 0 500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lynn</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8 5 1 550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Southern</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>5 8 0 384</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Tech</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>5 8 0 384</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barry</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>5 8 0 384</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckerd</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>5 8 0 384</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Intramural Sports Calendar

2006-2007

Intramural Sport Seasons

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sport</th>
<th>Online Registration</th>
<th>Captains Meeting</th>
<th>Season Dates</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CoRec Volleyball</td>
<td>Oct 10 - Aug 29</td>
<td>September 5</td>
<td>Sep 11 - Oct 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Soccer</td>
<td>Dec 5 - Jan 9</td>
<td>January 9</td>
<td>Jan 16 - Feb 22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basketball</td>
<td>Jan 23 - Feb 6</td>
<td>February 6</td>
<td>Feb 12 - Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Softball</td>
<td>Feb 27 - Mar 13</td>
<td>March 13</td>
<td>Mar 19 - Apr 26</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Event Tournaments

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sport</th>
<th>Event Date</th>
<th>Online Registration</th>
<th>Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Intramural Sports Challenge</td>
<td>August 23</td>
<td>N/A</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17&quot; Annual Golf Tournament</td>
<td>October 7</td>
<td>Sep 18 - Oct 2</td>
<td>Palm-Aire C.C. (Pompano Beach)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3-on-3 Basketball</td>
<td>October 22</td>
<td>Oct 3 - Oct 20</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Badminton Doubles</td>
<td>November 17</td>
<td>Oct 30 - Nov 15</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dodgeball</td>
<td>December 9</td>
<td>Nov 20 - Dec 7</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racquetball Singles</td>
<td>January 19</td>
<td>Jan 3 - Jan 17</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4-on-4 Flag Football</td>
<td>February 3</td>
<td>Jan 18 - Feb 1</td>
<td>Residence Hall Fields</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ultimate Frisbee</td>
<td>March 16</td>
<td>Feb 28 - Mar 14</td>
<td>Residence Hall Fields</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallyball</td>
<td>April 15</td>
<td>Mar 30 - Apr 13</td>
<td>RecPlex</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Please Note:

All dates, times and locations for our Intramural Sports and Special Events are subject to change.
Shark Bites

By Alicia Winslett
Sports Editor

Women's Golf

On Oct. 10, the women's golf team took home a first place trophy at the Myrtle Beach Women's Golf Intercollegiate. The team played on River Hills Golf Course in Little River, S.C. Freshman Maria Garcia Austt won the individual title, shooting a tournament low of 149. Junior Lina Bjorklund came in second place, three shots behind Austt with a score of 149. Sophomore Andrea Maldonado came in tied for 13th, and senior Sophie Friis was tied for 15th place. Elizabeth Bond rounded out the Sharks team, coming in 46th place.

The Sharks finished 18 shots ahead of second place finisher Pfeiffer University and 21 strokes ahead of third place Newberry College. The Sharks shot a 609 in the two-day tournament in which they played 36 holes.

Women's Soccer

The Sharks (8-2-0; 2-2SSC) were not successful in getting back into their winning rhythm as they were beaten by conference rivals, University of Tampa, 2-0. Both Spartan goals were made in the first half of the game. With just one shot on goal by sophomore Lauren Huffman for the Sharks, NSU's offense did not create much pressure for Tampa's defense. The Sharks are placed fourth for conference play.

Volleyball

On Oct. 10, the NSU volleyball team took down Palm Beach Atlantic in four games with scores of 30-15, 26-30, 30-27, and 30-26. This was the third consecutive win for the Sharks volleyball team, and NSU is now 9-14 in the season. Kaitlyn McNeil had 10 kills in 13 attempts for a .692 attack percentage. She also had six blocks, three of which were solo blocks. Andrea Irazarzabal led the Sharks with 16 kills that night. Melinda Gorman had 15 kills and Karla Ortiz had 14 kills.

Men's Soccer

On Oct. 11, the men's soccer team lost their home game against Lynn University. The men's team is on 7-5-1, 3-2-1. The score of the game was 3-0.

Upcoming Games

Men's and Women's Cross Country
Saturday, October 21 at 7:45 a.m. - SSC Championships at Markham Park in Sunrise, FL

Women's Golf
Sunday, October 22 - Flagler Fall Slam in St. Augustine, FL

Women's Soccer
Tuesday, October 17 at 6 p.m. - Game against Rollins College in Winter Park, FL

Saturday, October 21 at 7 p.m. - Home game against Florida Tech

Volleyball

Thursday, October 19 at 7 p.m. - Home game against the University of Puerto Rico-Piedras

Saturday, October 21 at 4 p.m. - Game against Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, FL

Men's Soccer
Tuesday, October 17 at 7 p.m. - Home game against Northwood University

Friday, October 20 at 7 p.m. - Home game against Florida Tech

Intramural Sports

Don't forget to sign up online October 10-24th for Flag Football. Captains' meeting is on October 24. The season is from October 30- December 7

Badminton Doubles: Friday, November 17

Adults with Type-2 Diabetes

The Center for Psychological Studies at Nova Southeastern University needs volunteers ages 21-65 to participate in a study examining predictors of healthy outcomes in diabetes.

We are seeking volunteers with diagnosed type-2 diabetes.

Participants in this study will:
- participate in a 60-75 minute assessment
- receive a $10 gift certificate
- receive a package of diabetes care materials, including an Abbott Freestyle blood sugar monitor and an exercise video
- have their blood sugar, height and weight checked
- complete surveys to help us learn about emotions and healthy behaviors

Volunteers are NOT eligible if:
- diagnosed with type-1 diabetes
- diagnosed with heart disease, atherosclerosis, kidney disease, or vision problems

For more information or to register for the study contact:
Dr. Jeff Kibler @ 954-262-5706
Dear NSU Community,

I was privileged enough to attend the PANSGA meeting last week, and it was interesting to watch how the members of the different SGAs interacted. Parking was the hot topic of the day, and there was a great deal of discussion between the students present and officials in attendance.

I was able to note early on how different it was from a meeting of the Undergraduate SGA.

The PANSGA is not particularly organized (which is not a bad thing), and they lack a constitution (another topic of discussion last week). The discussion during the meeting is more or less moderated by Dean Williams, and the exchange of ideas is comparatively free-flowing without too many guidelines or regulations to restrict it or slow it down.

I don't know how this compares to the graduate student government meetings, because I've never been to one and frankly, I wouldn't know when or where to show up. However, this relatively loose way of doing things is a far cry from the undergraduate use of Robert's Rules of Order.

A few words on Robert's Rules: I don't like them.

While the Rules may work in some political settings where everyone involved has been through law school or something and therefore learned the Rules well, in a setting such as the Undergraduate SGA, they're more of a hindrance than anything else.

So as to actually have a point, let me say that the way the PANSGA does things looks like a good one. I can see the desire of some of them to form a constitution, particularly if they ever get around to finding a source for a PANSGA budget, but the concerns that a few people expressed during the meeting about rules disrupting the way they do things are certainly valid. I think that organizing and making a constitution may ultimately be a help, but organizing to much and imposing too many regulations (like using Robert's Rules) would be much more of an obstruction.

Sincerely,

Alisha VanHoosre

By Paul Saneaux
Managing Editor

Exams burnt me out tremendously last week, which is sad considering that I only had two exams to worry about. I am sure that other students suffered far more horrible inhumanities than I have. Although many students shuffled around campus last week looking like haggard brain-dead zombies, it seemed that the SGA was miraculously on the ball during their meeting, cutting their discussion to a minimum, cutting to the chase, and cutting the general excess all around.

I don't know what odd form of magic was in the air that fateful Wednesday, but I felt it. But that could have just been the sleepy haze in my eyes from studying.

Anyway, Treasurer Alex Mitrani began the meeting with an interesting note to the SGA: approximately $24,000 of the Senate Reserve Fund has been spent by only the seventh week of school. That is to say a healthy sum was allocated (spent, if it hasn't rolled back) in an amount of time. That is also to say that half of a semester has just passed and one-fourth of the entire budget has been allocated. So, the SGA has to be careful from now on.

The NSUSGA Networking Reception Bill returned once more for careful deliberation. Like I said before, the purpose of this bill, as explained by VPJ Laxmi Lalwani, was to have the SGA network with administrators in a face-to-face way. The only gripe that some senators had was that the bill was requesting $500 for finger foods for 50 people for an hour long meeting. President Andrew Ibrahim explained this oddity, saying that they had to go through ARAMARK catering services first before resorting to another company. Only if another company provides cheaper service can an alternative be used, Ibrahim added. Besides that absurd detail, there was no other discussion and Residential Senator Etta Mills moved to have the bill cut in half, allotting $250. This motion passed and then it was approved. Quick and to the point.

An important resolution for the clubs returned again as the next piece of legislation; the resolution, conspicuously entitled Storage Space for Clubs and Organizations, was passed unanimously and will have a group of senators researching (scavenging, I should say) for storage space. Ibrahim made it clear that if this bill was with an interesting note to the SGA: approximately $24,000 of the Senate Reserve Fund has been spent by only the seventh week of school. That is to say a healthy sum was allocated (spent, if it hasn't rolled back) in an amount of time. That is also to say that half of a semester has just passed and one-fourth of the entire budget has been allocated. So, the SGA has to be careful from now on.

The NSUSGA Networking Reception Bill returned once more for careful deliberation. Like I said before, the purpose of this bill, as explained by VPJ Laxmi Lalwani, was to have the SGA network with administrators in a face-to-face way. The only gripe that some senators had was that the bill was requesting $500 for finger foods for 50 people for an hour long meeting. President Andrew Ibrahim explained this oddity, saying that they had to go through ARAMARK catering services first before resorting to another company. Only if another company provides cheaper service can an alternative be used, Ibrahim added. Besides that absurd detail, there was no other discussion and Residential Senator Etta Mills moved to have the bill cut in half, allotting $250. This motion passed and then it was approved. Quick and to the point.

An important resolution for the clubs returned again as the next piece of legislation; the resolution, conspicuously entitled Storage Space for Clubs and Organizations, was passed unanimously and will have a group of senators researching (scavenging, I should say) for storage space. Ibrahim made it clear that if this bill was Theatre, maybe. But that’s where it all stops. Why can’t nova students produce artwork? The artwork displayed in the Alvin Sherman Library could be that of our very own students, so why not demonstrate a wider range of interests this way? Sure, NSU is a relatively small, new school that still has much developing to do in such areas, but a little student involvement and show of interest in non-major related areas can go a long way.

Most importantly, this would be a mutual act, as it will help the school evolve as well as the students. We can focus and gain expertise all we want in one area. But experts are knowledgeable in one area, and ignorance becomes dominant in all the others. Expertise is ignorance this way. Don’t be ignorant, be diverse.

NSU says that the learning goes ‘beyond the classroom,’ so let’s at least see an art club, for God’s sake.

There are currently five students in my Composition 2020 course. Count that. Five. This isn’t about keeping the sizes small anymore. Rather, students aren’t engaging in other fields outside of the swarming Biology, Pre-pharmacy and business majors. Why not pick up an extra literature course? What’s the harm in exploring the works of outstanding authors? Maybe you’ll find one that talks directly through you.

I wonder sometimes. And I realize, if students don’t show interest, things won’t change. If students don’t take action for themselves, nothing will be accomplished. Gone on Course Wizard lately? The Biology courses take up about half the entire scroll. The rest are the required courses, fundamentals, higher level sciences… but ever stopped to look through the arts? You probably didn’t even realize we had an arts section. That’s because we practically don’t. Go. I dare you. Look up the arts. You won’t find much. Theatre, maybe. But that’s where it all stops.

Why can’t nova students produce artwork? The artwork displayed in the Alvin Sherman Library could be that of our very own students, so why not demonstrate a wider range of interests this way? Sure, NSU is a relatively small, new school that still has much developing to do in such areas, but a little student involvement and show of interest in non-major related areas can go a long way.

Most importantly, this would be a mutual act, as it will help the school evolve as well as the students. We can focus and gain expertise all we want in one area. But experts are knowledgeable in one area, and ignorance becomes dominant in all the others. Expertise is ignorance this way. Don’t be ignorant, be diverse.

NSU says that the learning goes ‘beyond the classroom,’ so let’s at least see an art club, for God’s sake.

Actually, “EVERYONE” ISN’T doing it!

41.6% of NSU Students Do NOT Consume Alcohol At Social Events

While 38% Of NSU Students Do Not Consume Alcohol Weekly, 26% Drink LESS THAN ONCE PER WEEK

10 Things Every Student Should Know About Drinking

Guest Speaker: Brett Sokolow

Wednesday, 10/18

9:15 p.m. HPD Assembly Room 2

NSU Celebrates Alcohol Awareness Week, October 16-22nd

For more information, contact kblanco@nova.edu or call 262-7283.
The Residences At Downtown Davie are located at 4680 SW 64th Avenue. Open Wed. thru Fri. 10-6, Sat. 11-5. REALTORS WELCOME 954-797-0571

Oral, written, or graphical representations cannot be relied upon as correctly stating representations of the developer. For correct representations, reference should be made to the condominium documents required by section 718.503, Florida Statutes, to be furnished by the developer to a buyer or lessee.

The Residences At Downtown Davie

FALL CAREER FAIR
NSU
Wednesday, October 18, 2006
Carl DeSantis Building
1:00 pm - 6:00 pm
CALL: 954-262-7201 FOR DETAILS
REGISTER ONLINE
WWW.NOVA.EDU/CAREER

GRAND OPENING!
Live Above It All – Above Shops, Offices...Above The Heart Of Downtown Davie!
You’ll live it up when you live here:

• The best of downtown – shops, restaurants & services – is just steps away!
• Gorgeous gourmet kitchens boasting stainless steel appliances
• Energy-efficient, solar-tinted windows made of hurricane-impact glass for ultimate security and savings
• Enjoyment all around you, with a community pool, fitness center, & BBQ area
• A mere 5 minutes from the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino; just 10 minutes to the Ft. Lauderdale/Hollywood Airport

Ask About Our Grand Opening Buyer’s Bonus:
2 And 3 BR Condominiums From The Upper $200’s and
3 BR, 3BA Townhome Condominiums With 2-Car Garage From The Low $500’s

www.downtowndavie.com
Three more senators were appointed. The SGA family is growing rapidly. This event is basically a series of craft activities that will allow girl scouts to earn badges that they would not normally receive. The bill requested $1,228.10 for craft supplies that the representatives assured would be reused as surplus. The senate had a five minute recess to discuss the bill openly, and returned to pass the bill 5-4-0. I do not know why four senators opposed the bill, but I can assume it was because the itemization was very thorough and many items were listed. Other than that, I could see no problem. It is no wonder why APhiO always receives their money; they know how to write bills. Other clubs can take a lesson from this organization. It is no wonder why APhiO always receives their money; they know how to write bills. Other clubs can take a lesson from this organization.

This event is basically a series of craft activities that will allow girl scouts to earn badges that they would not normally receive. The bill requested $1,228.10 for craft supplies that the representatives assured would be reused as surplus. The senate had a five minute recess to discuss the bill openly, and returned to pass the bill 5-4-0. I do not know why four senators opposed the bill, but I can assume it was because the itemization was very thorough and many items were listed. Other than that, I could see no problem. It is no wonder why APhiO always receives their money; they know how to write bills. Other clubs can take a lesson from this organization.

Additional (quick) Notes

Three more senators were appointed. The SGA family is growing rapidly.
The Eye Institute
NSU College of Optometry

Trust Your Eye Care To The Team That Teaches It

- Eye Examinations
- Contact Lenses
- Emergency Eye Care
- Large Selection of Designer Frames
- Prescription Sunglasses
- Protective Sports Eyewear

The Eye Institute
NSU College of Optometry

Trust Your Eye Care To The Team That Teaches It

- Eye Examinations
- Contact Lenses
- Emergency Eye Care
- Large Selection of Designer Frames
- Prescription Sunglasses
- Protective Sports Eyewear

Student Discount
25% OFF
All Frames and Lenses
10% OFF
All Contact Lenses
(Must present valid Student I.D. Card)
Not Valid with other discounts or Value Line

20% OFF
Prescription Lenses & Frame Purchase
(Value Line Excluded)
With this coupon
Offer Expires 12/30/06

20% OFF
ALL Designer Sunglasses
With this coupon
Offer Expires 12/30/06

Davie
Ziff Health Care Center
3200 S. University Drive
(954) 262-4200

Ft. Lauderdale
NBHD Specialty Care
1111 W. Broward Blvd.
(954) 525-1351

North Miami Beach
NSU Health Care Center
1750 N.E. 167th Street
(954) 262-4200