

Call for Papers
2017 Symposium
Entrepreneurship 2.0: Legal, Regulatory, and Economic Challenges to the Innovation Economy

Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad College of Law and the Nova Law Review seek submissions for a symposium on October 6, 2017. Entrepreneurship 2.0: Legal, Regulatory, and Economic Challenges to the Innovation Economy will address the intersection of law and business as it focuses on new technologies, ethics, and regulation.

The symposium is an opportunity for academics, practitioners, and students in a variety of legal, business, and technology fields to exchange ideas and explore emerging issues. Interdisciplinary presentations are encouraged. Authors and presenters are invited to submit proposals on topics including but not limited to the following:

New and Evolving Technologies

- Internet of Things (IoT)
- Data Analytics
- Professional Duties for Lawyers
- TRIPS and other trade agreements
- Virtual Reality
- Cybersecurity
- Evolution of Media
- Advertising and Marketing
- Artificial Intelligence

Technology in Health Care

- Electronic Health Records
- Genetic patents
- Genomic pharmacology
- Bioinformatics
- Medical devices
- Cybersecurity of medical devices
- E-health
- Patent evergreening
- Neuroscience

Finance and Financial Sector

- Ideation and ownership
- Meaningful disclosure in tech financing
- Crowdsourcing, crowdfunding, and crowd financing
- Funding sources and new markets
- Bitcoin and blockchain technologies
- Risk and process management
- Globalization and trade

Employment Sector

- Employee Management and Monitoring
- Bring Your Own Device policy
- Trade secrets
- Managing employment relationships
- Workforce displacement
- Technology's effect on bias and diversity
- Education policy for tomorrow's workforce

Learn more at <https://www.law.nova.edu/alumni/2017-symposium.html>

Submissions & Important Dates:

- Please submit materials to LawReview@nova.edu
- Submission Deadline for Abstracts: June 30, 2017
- Submission Deadline for Articles: September 15, 2017
- Symposium Date: October 6, 2017

Law Review Published Article: The Nova Law Review will review, edit and publish submissions in the 2017 Symposium issue. Articles, as well as case studies and abstracts of research in progress, will be considered for the symposium program for presentation purposes. Only complete articles, however, will be published in the law review. Abstracts for these papers will be due no later than the June 30, 2017 deadline and will be accepted on a rolling basis until that time.

Presentations (Without Publication) based on Abstracts: The Nova Law Review will review and select presentations for the symposium. If you are interested in presenting without submitting a publishable article, an abstract of the presentation must be submitted by the June 30, 2017 deadline and will be accepted on a rolling basis until that time.

About NSU Law's Sharon and Mitchell W. Berger Entrepreneur Law Clinic: In January 2017, NSU Law established the Sharon and Mitchell W. Berger Entrepreneur Law Clinic. The gift has three components:

1. A direct legal services component operated by the College of Law
2. A university-wide coordinated educational component to promote entrepreneurial education for market-ready research, product innovation, business, and law
3. Community outreach involving public speakers, conferences, community trainings, and similar events that promote NSU as the center of entrepreneurial education.

In partnership with other NSU colleges, the Berger Entrepreneur Law Clinic will facilitate community outreach and engagement. Students, staff attorneys, and faculty provide public education on business formation law, intellectual property law, privacy, regulatory obligations, and industry best-practices needed in the traditionally underserved communities which typically rely on non-venture funded business development.

About NSU Law's Interdisciplinary Legal Education: The 2017 Law Review Symposium is also co-sponsored by the NSU for Master of Science in Law Program featuring online education in the areas of Health Law, Employment Law, Education Law, and Law & Policy such as Cybersecurity Law. This innovative educational track for non-lawyers provide front-line professionals the skills and knowledge essential to operate in highly regulated industries. All symposium programming will be streamed and podcast, enabling all online students access to participate in the conference.

For More Information Please Contact: LawReview@nova.edu, (954) 262-6295 or the individuals below:

Dean Jon M. Garon, garon@nova.edu, (954) 262-6229

Laura Dietz, Director of Alumni Relations, ldietz@nova.edu, (954) 262-6303

Stephen O. Ayeni Jr., Editor-in-Chief, Nova Law Review, sal490@nova.edu, (407) 490-7028