

PEACE AND CONFLICT STUDIES Annual JOURNAL

PCSJ Conference

Sustainable progress; sustainable futures.

November 2 & 3, 2023 NSU's main campus Ft. Lauderdale, FL

A Call for Conference Submissions – Due April 15, 2023

Concepts of peace and progress are clashing on both practical and ideological fronts, challenging communitarian and collectivist beliefs, as much as they present challenges to liberal constructions of human life and individual peace. What is the significance of these dynamic intersections as we witness the expansion of peace and conflict studies; justice studies; public health and policy; and critical theories? How are ways of knowing and sense-making affected as paradigms continue to shift toward grappling with the existential question of what comes after we choose to fully inhabit sustainability as a value, ethic, goal, and process?

Prospective presenters should submit a proposal (approx. 300 words) to the Journal by April 15, 2023. The link is here: https://nsuworks.nova.edu/pcs_conference/. The proposal should convey the findings, methodology (if applicable), and contributions of the study to the field of peace and conflict resolution. Qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-methods studies, as well as empirically-grounded practitioner perspectives, are welcomed.

Further guidance may be obtained from the general description for PCS that follows. The Journal's website is at <https://nsuworks.nova.edu/pcs/>.

Peace and Conflict Studies (ISSN 1082-7307) is committed to interdisciplinary explorations on conflict resolution, peace building, humanitarian assistance, and other alternative mechanisms that seek to prevent and control violence. PCS is interested in these areas of focus for social change and nonviolence:

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| D sustainable development | D human rights |
| D ecological balance | D gender equality |
| D community revitalization | D intercultural relations |
| D reflective practice | D grassroots movements |
| D action research | D family interactions |
| D social justice | D workplace or organizational change |
| D human factors/interpersonal communication | D peace education |

Manuscripts may also address various human experiences, social issues, and policy agendas that are connected to the research literature, practice, and experiential learning in the fields.

Cheryl Duckworth, Ph.D.

Editor-in-Chief
cd956@nova.edu

Jeff Aguiar

Production Editor
ja2190@mynsu.nova.edu
